LIMIT PUT ON BOMBING, MACARTHUR SAYS

Republican Drive for Open Public Hearing Loses

Ridgway Visits Front, Is Satisfied

Reds To Continue Paying Bloody Price, Allied Chief Says

TOKYO, May 4—(AP)—Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway returned today from the Korean front confident Chinese armies would continue to pay the bloody price they have been paying" as long as they stay in Korea.

On a two-day trip the United Nations supreme commander said a front dominated by Allied planes and free-roaming U.N. tanks

Ridgway shared with his front line troops their complete confidence, complete self-assurance in their ability to handle anything that's thrown at them."

Friday the Reds threw artillery, mortar and high velocity shells from self-propelled guns at tank columns fanning out from Seoul.

For the third straight day a heavy U.S. force raided Uijongbu, 11 miles north of Seoul. The tanks' guns added to the daily toll of Red casualties. Communists made no attacks.

So far the only things they've succeeded in destroying are a few tons of thousands more of their own," Ridgway said.

We see no reason to believe they are going to continue to do that. They have to pay the bloody price they've been paying."

Close to 80,000

By U.S. Eighth Army estimate the price is close to 80,000 Red casualties since their now-bogged-down spring offensive started April 22. The Eighth Army revised its estimates of Thursday's Communist losses to 1,815.

On his third trip to the front since he became supreme commander, Ridgway watched Chinese and North Korean fellows are going to continue to put up with the empty Communist promises to throw us out of Korea and destroy the United Nations army.

The Reds were gathering today under the protective cover of rain clouds for another attempt.

I'm sure they're going," Ridgway said, "that they have to sacrifice so many tens of thousands of people and continue to devastate this country for their own aggressive selfish ends.

Whatever the enemy does he will get more than he reckoned for."

The Red Propaganda radio broadcast Friday night that seven U.N. planes were shot down, seven tanks destroyed and an American counterattack repulsed. There was no U.N. report resembling this.

Reds Move Supplies

U.N. planes, hunting through low rain clouds, reported Communist trucks were rolling southward on the hundreds. They've been coming for days despite heavy losses to round-the-clock air raids.

Communist jet planes and piston-driven Russian fighters showed up in greater numbers. Two were shot down in combat—bagging [illegible]

The Reds had been quiet on the Korean front since Monday when Communist Chinese troops launched their spring offensive.

Soviet Soldiers Kill American M.P. in Vienna

VIENNA, Austria, May 4—(AP)—An American military policeman was shot and killed today by two Russian soldiers firing automatic pistols. U.S. authorities prepared a sharp protest.

The American Cpl. Paul Greer was shot on a Vienna street from two yards in the aftermath after two Russians cut loose with 20 shots outside a night club in the central part of the city. The Russians fled to the Soviet sector.

Lt. Col. Henry G. Thomas, U.S. provost marshal in the Austrian capital, sought a meeting today with the Russian provost marshal to protest the shooting and demand Soviet cooperation. Failing this the protest may be

3 Defiant In Probe Of Subversives

Contempt Citations Will Be Considered, Rep. Robinson Says

COLUMBUS, May 4—(AP)—A third witness today refused to answer questions of the subversives investigating committee of the Ohio legislature.

He was Philip Frankfeld of Cleveland. Frankfeld has identified himself as the Communist district organizer for Ohio, but he refused to tell the committee whether that was his title or whether he was a Communist.

Frankfeld and Andrew Remes, state secretary of the party, were subpoenaed for testimony at an open committee hearing.

A voluntary witness called for testimony was St. John Ungvary of the Cleveland police department's subversive squad.

Chairman Kenneth A. Robinson (R-Marion) indicated the committee will consider citing for contempt of the General Assembly Frankfeld and two Youngstown women who refused to answer questions yesterday.

Frankfeld said he refused to answer the questions on the ground his replies might tend to incriminate him.

Two Are Women

The Youngstown women, who appeared yesterday, were Mrs. Mildred Hamilton and Mrs. Pauline Taylor, a Negro housewife.

They responded to subpoenaes yesterday but refused to answer some questions on constitutional grounds. Contempt of the legislature carries a $100 to $5,000 fine.

Mrs. Hamilton declined to say whether she was or ever had been a Communist. Mrs. Taylor denied Communist membership. But she said she was a delegate to the world peace congress in Poland last year and later spent ten days in Russia. She refused to name delegates to the congress or to a women-for-peace meeting in Washington last August. She said she headed Ohio delegates in Washington and was the only Ohioan at the peace congress.

Had Lawyer

Counsel for Mrs. Hamilton at the hearing yesterday was Thelma Furry of Akron, a member of the civil rights committee. Mrs. Hamilton consulted with her before refusing to answer questions.

Mrs. Hamilton said she was born in Wilkes Barre, Pa., and had lived in Youngstown five years. Before going to Youngstown she said she was with the American Red Cross hospital service in Cleveland and Danville, Ky. She said she graduated from the University of Michigan and Smith School for social workers.

Asked her maiden name and that of her husband, she refused to answer. She said she declined on the ground that to answer might tend to incriminate me. She gave the same answer to questions like these asked by committee counsel Sidney Isaacs, former FBI man:

In 1947 were you a member of the Communist Party holding card 73072 signed by Arnold Johnson, head of the party in Ohio?"

Are you a holder of Box 314 in Youngstown?" Do you have access to it? Do you know the box number is carried on the heading of Communist letters and leaflets there?

Did you ever circulate nominating petitions for Andrew Onda, Communist candidate for president of city council in Youngstown?

After that refusal, the suit-clad Mrs. Hamilton lighted a cigaret.

Committee member Louis J. Schneider (R-Hamilton) asked her if she ever urged use of force, violence or fraud in advocating political reform.

Changes Reply

Mrs. Hamilton started her familiar answer, but on prompting

MACARTHUR CORNERED BY PRESS BEFORE TESTIFYING. Newsmen and photographers crowd around Gen. Douglas MacArthur (arrow) in the Senate caucus room in Washington before closed joint session of the Senate foreign relations and armed services committees convened yesterday to hear the General's detailed version of the Far East policy controversy which led to his removal from supreme command. All members of the press were removed from the room while the session was underway.

TOOK NOTES. Vernice Anderson, State Department secretary, poses in her office at Washington after she told how she sat behind a slatted door during the Wake Island conference and made stenographic notes while Gen. Douglas MacArthur, President Truman and their aides talked. The only woman at the island meeting, Miss Anderson said she took notes automatically, "under no one's instructions."

Metz Charges, Answer Filed With State

Former Home Heads Enter Denial; To Fight Removal

Formal charges against Mr. and Mrs. Mac D. Metz, former superintendent and matron of the Children's Home, and their answer were filed today with the State Civil Service Commission at Columbus.

The charges, which were not released for publication were contained in a permanent removal order voted last Saturday by the Child Welfare Board. The order and the answers were filed by Board Attorney Louis B. Conkle with the commission.

Mr. and Mrs. Metz denied the charges in the answer which was presented the welfare board yesterday by Attorneys Russell M. Wilhelm and Robert A. Kelly, who represent Mr. and Mrs. Metz. It was the first action by Mr. and Mrs. Metz since their suspension as superintendent and matron, respectively, of the Marion County Children's Home April 5.

Mr. Wilhelm said yesterday his clients would make a fight for reinstatement before the Civil Service Commission when it convenes here to consider the case at a date to be announced, probably late in June.

Their discharge as superintendent and matron becomes official today with the filing of the permanent removal order and charges against them.

The specific charges will become public record after their filing with commission today.

While the exact specifications contained in them were not disclosed by the Child Welfare Board, the text of the answer denying them signed by Mr. Metz indicated they were malfeasance and other failures of good behavior, neglect of duty and insubordination.

Mr. and Mrs. Metz directed children's home operations from 1939 until April 5.

Nine persons cast absentee voter ballots at the Marion County Board of Elections yesterday before the 6:30 p.m. deadline. The nine ballots brought to a total of 50 the number of persons casting absentee votes for the May 8 primary election.

Persons casting ballots were those who will be away from Marion on election day.

Call 7-State Meeting On Gas Shortage

COLUMBUS, May 4—(AP)—The State Utilities Commission, faced with demands for a freeze, today called a seven-state meeting to consider what to do about the critical fuel gas shortage.

"In view of the Ohio Fuel Gas Company's shortage of gas during the past winter, especially in the cities of Toledo and Parma, the increased demand for space heating, the growing use of gas for industrial users and the protection of the present users of gas, the question of restrictions on this service in Ohio has become a very grave question," the commission said.

"In an effort to obtain further information on what can be done to meet this situation and provide more gas for Ohio and the other states involved, the commission has called a meeting of the utility commissions of the District of Columbia and all of the states served by the Columbia gas system."

The Columbia system operates in New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, the District of Columbia and Ohio.

The meeting will be held in Washington May 8. All state commissions have agreed to attend, except Pennsylvania where commissioners must appear before the state legislature.

Record Rainfall Reported in Marysville

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE, May 4—Streets and basements of Marysville were flooded Wednesday evening as the result of a flash flood caused by a record rainfall.

A total of 2.45 inches of rain fell with two inches falling between 5 and 6 p.m. Local weather observers believe it is probably the heaviest rainfall ever reported here in such a short time.

Streets in the city for a time resembled shallow streams and automobiles were bogged down on many street corners. The cemetery and Legion Park were transformed into lakes.

One householder reported that two walls in the basement of his home crumbled and collapsed due to the force of the water.

Says MacArthur Offered $5 Million for Memoirs

NEW YORK, May 4—(AP)—General Douglas MacArthur, whose salary and allowances come to $18,761 a year, has been offered $5,000,000 for his memoirs.

The offer was disclosed last night by Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, MacArthur's personal aide.

Whitney, however, declined to say who made the offer. Neither did he say how the deposed Far Eastern commander reacted to the offer.

TRAIN KILLS 2 AT LIMA

LIMA, O., May 4—(AP)—A Pennsylvania railroad train struck an automobile here yesterday, killing Mr. and Mrs. William Murphy, both deaf mutes.

SERIOUS WITNESS. General MacArthur's face wore a serious expression as he took the stand yesterday (above) at the start of the Senate committee inquiry into his ouster by President Truman and the issues involved in their controversy.

Wheat Crops Seen Below Expectations

Forecast Poorest Returns Ever In Southwest

KANSAS CITY, May 4—(AP)—The surviving wheat fields are calf-high or taller across the Southwest prairies, but crop forecasters predict slim pickings when the harvest rolls north out of Texas next month.

Ever since the federal forecast of 726,512,000 bushels was made April 10, experts in the major wheat producing states have been subtracting.

Brehm Asks New Trial

WASHINGTON, May 4—(AP)—Rep. Walter E. Brehm (R-Ohio) asked today for a new trial on charges of receiving illegal campaign contributions.

A jury last Monday night convicted the 58-year-old congressman of five counts of an indictment charging he accepted a total of $1,000 from Mrs. Emma S. Craven while she worked for him as a clerk in 1948. He has not been sentenced.

In the motion for a new trial, defense attorney Leo Rover alleged Judge Burnita S. Matthews had made errors in instructing the jury.

Rover also claimed Judge Matthews should not have admitted testimony concerning alleged payments to Brehm prior to the dates mentioned in the indictment.

Government will have five days to reply. Then Judge Matthews will hear arguments on the motion.

G.O.P. Move Blocked By 41-37 Vote

Testimony Will Continue Subject To Censorship

WASHINGTON, May 4—(AP)—The Senate by a vote of 41 to 37 today blocked a Republican drive to open the MacArthur-Far East policy hearings to the public.

Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican floor leader, thereupon told the Senate that the forces favoring the open hearings, which he has quarterbacked, "have done our level best."

He indicated there would be no immediate effort to renew the fight.

The vote was on a move to take up a Republican-sponsored resolution which would direct that the hearings on Gen. Douglas MacArthur's ouster by President Truman be opened to the public.

Get Censored Reports

The hearings now are being held behind closed doors and the testimony is being relayed to newsmen after it has been censored by state and defense department security officers.

Senator McFarland (D-Ariz), the majority floor leader announced in the Senate he would move at 12 p.m. or shortly thereafter to take up a Republican-sponsored motion to open up hearings.

Senator Wherry of Nebraska quarterbacking the Republican forces, told reporters "I want a showdown vote today whether we win or lose."

Arrayed against them were Democratic forces charging the Republicans with trying to make political capital of MacArthur's appearance before the joint Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees.

Democrats argue that vital military secrets might be spread abroad in open hearings.

"Getting Hot"

Senator Wherry told reporters the issue has grown "too hot" for the Democrats to stand firm in their refusal to permit the issue to come to a Senate vote.

By 42 to 39 vote, the Democrats yesterday forced a recess of the Senate until 11 a.m. today after hours of angry debate. The action headed off a vote on the hearings issue.

The vote was strictly on party lines with one exception—Senator McCarran (D-Nev) voted with the Republicans against the recess. McCarran has denounced the dismissal of MacArthur and declared President Truman should reinstate him.

Manchuria To Be Bombed If Reds Use Air

TOKYO, May 4—(AP)—Allied airmen will get the green light to bomb Manchurian bases if the Chinese Reds throw the weight of their Air Force against United Nations ground troops in Korea.

The 14 U.N. countries fighting in Korea are reported in agreement on the need to hit back hard if the Chinese fly out of their Manchurian sanctuary in force.

But air strikes at Manchurian bases involve many touchy problems militarily.

What would be the extent of the strikes?

That would depend on whether U.N. instructions were general or specific.

General instructions might limit the attack to Red air fields. Specific orders could extend the attack to rail yards, communications centers, war plants and roads.

Allied airmen would strike first perhaps at the airfields.

They know there are many of these in Manchuria and North Korea.

U. S. B-29s blast those in Korea every few days. The Reds just as doggedly put them back in shape.

JUNE DRAFT CALL

WASHINGTON, May 4—(AP)—The Army today issued a draft call for 20,000 men in June. This is the smallest number in any monthly call since the draft was resumed last September.

Included Point In North Korea

Testimony Deleted From Transcript, Senator Tells Press

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, May 4—(AP) Gen MacArthur, under fire from Democratic senators for his public break with the Truman Administration on Asian policy, told them today: "I do not believe in gag rule."

"It seems to me," he said, "that the American people are entitled to certain basic facts when it involves the lives of their sons, and perhaps, the future of our country."

WASHINGTON, May 4—(AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur was quoted today as saying Washington never would let him bomb one major Communist supply point within Korea but near the Russian border.

A senator, asking that his name not be disclosed, said MacArthur gave that testimony yesterday but censors knocked it out of the transcript of testimony made public. The Red Korean supply town was described as about 35 miles from the Russian border.

Another senator who likewise was unwilling to be quoted by name confirmed that the censoring of testimony about bombing this target, as well as some hydroelectric installations, had inspired a protest by Senator Knowland (R-Calif.)

Most of North Korea borders on Manchuria, but in the extreme northeast the boundary line meets Russian territory.

This senator said MacArthur testified also that Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer and Maj. Gen. Emmett (Rosie) O'Donnell had insisted that the enemy distribution point in that section within Korea must be destroyed. The two men are air officers.

This version was given newsmen while MacArthur, for the second day, related to investigating senators in a closed door session his differences with the Truman administration over Far Eastern policy.

Two senate committees—armed services and foreign relations—are jointly conducting an inquiry into these differences and President Truman's dismissal of MacArthur from his Far Eastern commands.

Brisk Exchange

The censored transcript sent out to newsmen disclosed the general had a brisk question-and-answer exchange with Senator McMahon (D-Conn), a vigorous supporter of the administration's viewpoint in the great dispute.

McMahon's questions ranged into MacArthur's statement last fall that he hoped to have his boys "home by Christmas" and the general's tactics in splitting his forces for a "win-the-war" drive to the Korean-Manchurian border.

As to the split forces, MacArthur said his troop dispositions had the approval of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

And as to the "home by Christmas" talk, the general said, "that was my hope."

The record indicated some signs of anger on MacArthur's part when McMahon asked whether he thought it came within the province of a theater commander "to register publicly with persons in political life, or out of it for that matter, his differences of opinion," with his government.

MacArthur replied:

"I believe the theater commander has the responsibility of registering his views as he might see fit, if they are honest views and not in contradiction to any implementing directives that he may have received."

Not Gag Public

Then referring to what he called the "implications" of McMahon's question, the general said he did not believe that "any segment of American society shall be so gagged that the truth and the full truth shall not be brought out."

The American way, MacArthur went on, is for full airing of diverse opinions on controversial issues while "the Soviet method is entirely in contradiction to that."

Punching away along the same line, MaMahon asked how MacArthur would feel about a subordinate officer in his theater "who had felt as you feel." Would he, McMahon asked, defend the right of a brigadier general on his staff to express policy opinions

Three Guest Soloists Heard

Lecture-Recital Club Presents Spring Concert

Before an audience of more than 200 at the new State Street School music room last night, the Lecture-Recital Club chorus presented its annual spring concert, under direction of Mrs. George Lane. Three guest soloists appeared with the group. Miss Rosaline Munzo accompanied the 50-voice choral group.

Lecture-Recital Club soloist who presented groups of numbers were Mrs DeJon Morral Hassell, soprano, and Mrs J Paul Goebel, pianist, and a Junior Lecture-Recital Club soloist, Stephen Lacey, played cello selections. Mrs John F. Lacey was the piano accompanist. Miss Barbara McDonald was a featured soloist with the chorus.

The chorus opened and closed the program with two groups of songs, and in response to applause of the audience at the close, sang a number arranged by George Lane, four lullaby rhymes written in four-part harmony for women's voices. Other compositions used included works by several well known writers of modern music.

Mrs Hassell sang Rachmaninoff's "Lilacs," 'Joy' by Wirtels and "Evening Prayer," Humperdinck.

For his cello numbers Stephen Lacey played "Elegie," Faure, and "The Swan," Saint-Saens.

Mrs Goebel's numbers were "Staabe 'Lauten" Grieg, and "Ballade in G Minor" Chopin.

Because of a death in the family, Miss Sally Schneider Junior Lecture-Recital Club piano soloist who was to have presented a group of selections, did not appear.

In its first group the chorus presented "Visions," Sjoberg-Balogh, "Wishes," Klemm, 'The Long Day Closes," Sullivan, and 'One World" O'Hare, in which Miss McDonald was featured. The second group included "May Day Carol," folksong arranged by Deems Taylor 'The Little French Clock Kountz "Hallelujah' Youmans, and 'Our Waltz" and "Holiday for Strings' both by David Rose followed by the nursery rhyme encore.

Ushering were four members of the Junior Lecture-Recital Club. Misses Evelyn Price, Barbara Wolfe Joan Neidhart and Carolyn Jones. Arrangements for the concert were made by the program committee of the club, Mrs George Griffiths, Mrs A G. Buch, Mrs H. K. Mouser, and Mrs. Lloyd E Lutz who is chorus president.

AEC Tests At Eniwetok To End Next Week

HONOLULU, May 4—(AP)—The final of the Eniwetok tests, designed to get information for planning civilian defense against the atom bomb, is expected next week.

As indicated by announcements by the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) itself, one chief aim will be to find the kind of factory and civilian shelters needed to withstand atomic blast.

Up through "Operation Sandstone" at Eniwetok in May of 1948, the main purpose of these A experiments was to determine the bomb's destructive power and its value as a military weapon.

Now "Operation Greenhouse," as it is called, will try to learn what materials and structural designs may afford protection should atomic warfare come to the United States.

The AEC has promised a full report of the current tests to the civil defense administration.

The commission also told the American Institute of Architects that the impending tests will provide data for the development of design criteria."

Festival Of Britain Off To Good Start

LONDON, May 4—(AP)—The United Kingdom celebrated the start of the festival of Britain into the early hours today with a show of bright lights, revelry and 2,000 bonfires.

The fires were set off simultaneously throughout the kingdom at a broadcast signal—the sound of a massed chorus of 5,000 voices rising in song outside St. Paul's Cathedral in London.

London made a full night of it. Its celebration extended throughout the town and especially along the brilliantly lit banks of the Thames river. Every big light that London has was turned on.

Gay little river boats, that will shuttle festival visitors along the Thames between various exhibitions, skimmed back and forth. There were flags and gay lights and spouting fountains.

The festival program was opened officially yesterday in a parade of pomp and pageantry led by King George VI. He hailed it as a symbol of Britain's "abiding courage and vitality."

"This is no time for despondency," the king said. Londoners took him at his word last night. The exhibition sites are not scheduled to open until today but it made no difference to the crowds.

They move happily through the town, looking at the lights and just celebrating. Major roads and bridges in the center of London were almost impassable in the traffic crush. London newspapers said it was the happiest night since the end of World War II for Britain.

The nationwide festival, a $33,000,000 extravaganza, will run five months.

Bucyrus Council Grants Pay Hikes

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS—Employes of City Hospital here were granted pay raises, effective May 1, by city council at its meeting Tuesday after council's finance committee had approved the raises at a previous meeting.

Nursing personnel and office help will receive $15 more monthly with general duty registered nurses being increased to $2,460 annually. Custodial, laundry and kitchen help will receive pay hikes of $10 a month while a slight increase also was provided for personnel paid on an hourly basis.

Councilmen pointed out that hospital employes did not share in the $20 a month pay hike given other municipal employes in March.

Fire Chief William F. Mader was ordered to pay with city funds for helmets, boots and raincoats used by firemen after firemen had informed councilmen that they had been forced to purchase these items of equipment with their own money.

Council was informed that the chief had withheld approval of purchase of the items with city funds because the men sometimes took them away from the fire station for their personal use. Under the new regulations, firemen will be required to leave the equipment at the station.

An ordinance, authorizing the city to enter into contracts to furnish fire protection for Whetstone, Bucyrus, Holmes and Dallas Townships was approved. The city will furnish fire protection for Dallas Township at $200 a year while the other three townships each will pay $300 annually for two trips to township fires while additional calls will cost the townships $75 each.

Fish Fry Held By Progressive Grange

A fish fry preceded a regular meeting of Progressive Grange held Tuesday night in the Grange hall. On the committee in charge of the fish fry were Robert Blank, chairman, Mrs. Orla Barks, Mrs. F. M. Fairchild, Mrs. Mae Epley, Harlie Irey, Walter Fetter and Alpheus Gruber.

Oscar Ruth, master, presided for the meeting during which an announcement was made of Pomona meeting to be held Saturday night at Martel. The attendance prize was won by L. H. Rehl.

Highlighting the program, in charge of Mrs. Jack Danner, lecturer, was a talk by Mrs. Vernon Bosh, a German war bride. She spoke of her childhood in her native country and of her experiences during war days in Germany. She displayed to the group articles which she had brought from Germany and others which her husband, now stationed in Japan, had sent to her, and she played a number of German recordings of songs.

The program also included a song by the group, "Win Them One by One," and a poem, "Someone's Mother," read by Miss Ruth Ann Higgins.

The next meeting of the Grange will be May 15.

MacArthur's Russia

IT DID not take the inquiring senators long in their questioning of Gen MacArthur what the essential difference is between his point of view and that of the strategists in Washington.

To MacArthur, the Soviet Union is only a modern name for Russia. MacArthur's Russia is not the center of the international Communist conspiracy. It is another, the great power which shares a long land mass with one frontier in Europe and the other in Asia.

It is the Russia of the ancient Czars, seeking warm water seas. It is a military problem for powers whose interests are in conflict with it—the same military problem, though infinitely more difficult, that Douglas A. MacArthur studied when he was a young soldier. Not once in his testimony before the senators on Thursday did he speak of the Communists and their conspiracy. He spoke only of a great land power and his estimates of its potentialities and operations. It was the testimony of a professional soldier, not the testimony of a soldier-politician.

Yet, the soldier's estimate has become important. The Soviet Union has combined militarism and politics. It has made the Communist ideology a weapon of war, and it uses military power to advance the ideology.

Gen MacArthur is impatient with those who see politics and militarism. The question is whether or not the fault lies with his own estimates, or with one kind of problem they have encountered in the Communist conspiracy.

Uniform Law Enforcement

THE BILL which gives the governor of Ohio power to file removal complaints against county sheriffs and prosecutors has been passed by both houses of the general assembly. Governor Lausche had asked for such a bill in his campaign speeches.

It provides a way to create a uniform standard of enforcement for Ohio law, because the governor can take action against any sheriff, sheriff, or prosecutor who fails behind the prosecution. Hearings would be held in the county seat court jurisdiction in which the official resides.

In effect the bill widens the governor's present authority over elected mayors. But at the same time it narrows the governor's authority by making courts responsible for removal. We presume a governor can act on the complaint and judge in an action to remove a county official.

In the hands of a conscientious, alert governor the new law will be a powerful instrument for good. A governor who tried to abuse it would be checked at every turn without saying, by the common pleas courts.

Though he had opposed Harry Truman's presidential nomination in 1948, Mr. Truman had bigger fish to fry in New York than personal revenge.

The Democrats wanted to lick Thomas E. Dewey in the race for governor. They also wanted to keep Herbert Lehman in the Senate. To do this, they needed a big Democratic vote. MacArthur Obeyed Chiefs

By David Lawrence

Evidence That He Followed Recommendations

WASHINGTON

GENERAL MACARTHUR followed almost word for word the recommendations of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in the fourpoint program which he gave to both houses of Congress at the historic meeting on April 19.

Senators who have just examined a copy of the all-important message of the Joint Chiefs of Staff dated Jan. 12, 1951, find that it stated to MacArthur as the policy recommended by the Joint Chiefs to the President the following:

LAWRENCE

"Continue and intensify now the economic blockade of trade with China.

"Prepare now to impose a naval blockade of China and place it into effect as soon as our position in Korea stabilizes, or when we have evacuated Korea and depending upon circumstances then obtaining.

"Remove now restrictions on air reconnaissance of China Coastal areas and of Manchuria.

"Remove now the restrictions on operation of the Chinese Nationalist forces and give such logistic support to those forces as will contribute to effective operations against the Communists."

THE FOREGOING can be compared with the following voice recording of the text of the MacArthur address to Congress:

"Apart from the military need as I saw it, to neutralize the sanctuary protection given the enemy north of the Yalu, I felt that military necessity in the conduct of the war made necessary:

"First, the intensification of our economic blockade against China.

"Two, the imposition of a naval blockade against the China coast.

"Three, removal of restrictions on air reconnaissance of China's coastal areas and of Manchuria.

"Four, removal of restrictions on the forces of the Republic of China on Formosa, with logistical support to contribute to their effective operation against a common enemy."

For same strange reason—although General MacArthur handed the text of his address to the official stenographers and although voice recordings are available to everybody—the Congressional Record misquoted the general the next day, giving the fourth point as follows:

"Fourth, removal of restrictions on the forces of the Republic of China on Formosa with logistical support to contribute to their effective operation against the Chinese mainland. (Applause.)"

General MacArthur never used the words "Chinese mainland," yet he has been widely misrepresented as having used them. He said "against the common enemy." It may be that the stenographers failed to check their own notes against the official text or else that they lost the words in the wave of applause. But the Congressional Record is wrong and so, unfortunately, are many other publications and press associations which have reprinted that text, believing it to be authentic.

INCIDENTALLY, it will be noted that the Joint Chiefs spoke of using the Chinese Nationalist forces for "effective operations against the Communists." There was no reference to any particular place on the map where they should be used. When General MacArthur speaks of "effective operations against the common enemy," this could mean their use in Korea or anywhere else, but there is not the slightest ground for claiming that he said the "Chinese mainland" because he never used those two words.

Another curious error appears in the Congressional Record as compared with the voice recording. The Congressional Record quotes MacArthur as follows:

"I made clear that if not permitted to utilize the friendly Chinese force of some 600,000 men on Formosa; if not permitted to blockade the China coast to prevent the Chinese Reds from getting succor from without; and if there were to be no hope of major reinforcements, the position of the command from the military standpoint forbade victory."

Actually the voice recording shows that General MacArthur had another clause at the very beginning of the foregoing sentence and it really read:

"I made clear that if not permitted to destroy the enemy-built-up bases north of the Yalu, if not permitted to utilize the friendly Chinese force etc."

One wonders why this all-important clause referring to enemy bases north of the Yalu was omitted from the official record. Again, it probably should be attributed to carelessness of the stenographers rather than to any deliberate omission.

THE DOCUMENTS show that General MacArthur spoke by the book when he said that "for entertaining these views, all professionally designed to support our forces committed to Korea and bring hostilities to an end with the least possible delay and at a saving of countless American and Allied lives, I have been severely criticized in lay circles, principally abroad, despite my understanding that from a military standpoint the above views have been fully shared in past by practically every military leader concerned with the Korean campaign, including our own Joint Chiefs of Staff."

The significance of the above is that, while the critics have unfairly charged General MacArthur with "military insubordination" or with trying to run "foreign policy," he was merely repeating the established military policy of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. If those recommendations have since been overridden—and General MacArthur never received a single message to that effect after Jan. 12, 1951—then it must have been because civilian interference with military operations occurred. The Joint Chiefs never advised the supreme commander in the Far East of any change in their recommendations as outlined in their Jan. 12 message.

They Never Die

By TRUMAN TWILL

TO borrow from a saying recently put into circulation, old gardeners never die; they just run out of steam.

Hundreds of thousands of people who once rushed outside at the first opportunity to scratch in the earth now stay inside and save liniment. Since this is the time of year when "gardener's back" is commoner than the common cold at Christmas, something should be said in honor of old gardeners who never run out of steam.

What they finally learned is that there is no justification for amateur gardening in a rational society.

Gardening can be done only on a hobby basis by amateurs, the same as knitting socks, making furniture at home, or binding books for fun.

Therefore, when the amateur gardener ceases to enjoy gardening as a hobby, that is all he needs for a sign-off.

Your old gardener is frequently bitter about his experience. He recalls with more rancor than pleasure the seeds he donated to the birds, the bugs and the rabbits. He looks grim when he recalls the back-breaking toil he put in, losing a one-sided battle against weeds, hail storms, high winds and dogs.

He tells with sour relish about the fantastic overhead incurred in a simple gardening operation such as raising a few dozen Hubbard squash which no one wanted to eat.

It is only when your old gardener recalls how he used to feel in Maytime that he can understand what prompted him to get out of his easy chair and make a fool of himself.

"But I gave all that up a good many years ago," he will say. "It was more work than it was worth."

Which is true, according to the lights of an old gardener who has run out of steam.

Everything seems possible in the springtime, when bugs, blights and natural disasters are remote and when a couple bushels of beans sounds like an unmitigated blessing.

There is a great compulsion on human beings to stir the earth with a stick and make something grow. There is not, unfortunately, a great deal of thought given to the consequences of making too many things grow at the wrong or not enough at the right time.

Nor is there any thought given to the fact that in the United States there is no law to keep amateurs from competing with professionals other than the law of mass production, which says the professionals will do the same things more cheaply and more experty.

All of which has been revealed to old gardeners who have run out of steam. Bless them in their rockers as they leer at all us saps who get all steamed up each May and mutter by the end of June that we are holding a bear by the tail.

Congress Quiz

Q—Why have witnesses from New Orleans, Houston and other points outside the area that would be served by the St. Lawrence Seaway objected to the project?

A—Many of the opposition witnesses have maintained the seaway would threaten other long-established transportation facilities and that losses to the economy from its construction might outweigh gains. The House public works committee has heard both sides.

A Test of Strength

Russia Answers Mr. Kohlberg

By George E. Sokolsky

ALFRED KOHLBERG has a wicked, almost a sardonic sense of humor. He is the China lobby that the State Department talks so much about. But he is not registered as a lobbyist because he represents only himself, American citizen and merchant, who gives of his time and money to good causes, one of them being a constant fight against Communism.

So, Kohlberg noticed that the large foundations, looking for ways to expend inherited money, have been setting up institutes and such in our universities with the object of fixing it so that Americans will understand the Russians. He had not noticed that anybody was spending a dime on getting the Russians to understand the Americans. Apparently, that is unnecessary, as Americans need not be understood by anybody. In fact, nobody is making any particular significant effort in that direction.

SOKOLSKY

So, Kohlberg got the idea that he might go to Russia to see for himself and also maybe to tell a couple of Russians what goes here in the United States. Having no official position, being just a little American who pays his taxes and votes at elections, Kohlberg applied to the Russian embassy for a blank on which to apply for a visa to the Soviet Union.

* * *

HE GOT AN ANSWER, which I herewith quote in full:

"Dear Sir:

Your letter regarding your trip to the Soviet Union has been received. Although we comprehend the importance of this visit we regret to inform you that we are not in a position to assist you in this matter. Persons desiring to visit our country for private purposes have normally to enter the Soviet Union as tourists through the travel agency "Intourist." During the war this organization discontinued its work and has not resumed it up to the present time. Thus, your trip to the Soviet Union will become possible after the Intourist agency resumes its functions.

Very truly yours,
S/ SAVCHENKO
Chief, consular division"

As there is no Intourist agency nobody can go to Russia except an official. Now, all these people who say there is no iron curtain have been made liars by Mr. S Savchenko, who says there is one. It was pulled down for Americans when the Intourist travel agency left the United States.

Incidentally, that is a new dodge in international relations, the use of a travel agency to control the visits to a country. Soon, nobody will be able to visit China because there is no Chinese travel agency here, or Poland or Czechoslovakia for the same reason.

KOHLBERG THINKS the Russians are hard to understand. I do not think so. They do things simply. It is their simplicity which is confusing.

For instance, take their war in Korea. They direct it. They provide the arms, munitions and experts. They arrange for the Chinese to come in after the Koreans are defeated, and for the Mongols and Buriats to come in after the Chinese are defeated. But the Russian troops stay out. Therefore, the Russians are not in the war and Americans are warmongers. Nothing could be simpler.

Had we used Chiang Kai-shek's army of 600,000 as they used Mao Tze-tung's army, we would have been able to say that we are not at war but Chiang Kai-shek is at war. Could anything be simpler?

SIMILARLY, THE RUSSIANS wanted to get rid of MacArthur. Did they do anything about it? Not at all. That would have been too obvious. They stirred up the Indians, who stirred up the British. The Indians made an issue of MacArthur, and the British did not want to offend the Indians as Lewis Douglas told us at The Associated Press luncheon. He seemed to think that nothing mattered but keeping India in the British commonwealth, not even our more than 10,500 dead sons. So the British put the pressure on Acheson, who put it on Marshall, who put it on Truman who gave MacArthur the skids.

Could anything be simpler than that? Russians are not hard to understand. Anyone who has had a smart small girl in his household who knows how to play daddy off against mamma ought to be able to understand a Russian. It is as childish as that—but it always works because papa loves Baby Snooks!

Marion County History Brevities

In 1883 the county of Marion, as nearly as can be ascertained, had about 75 churches. The number of members in these respective churches are reported in most instances in the city and township histories, but not being reported in all, the exact total cannot be given. The strongest denominations in point of numbers were the Methodists, Free-Will Baptists, Lutherans and Evangelical, Presbyterians and German Reformed, Catholics and United Brethren. There was one Universalist Church at Caledonia.

The Once Over

Shudda Haddim and the Derby

Shudda Haddim is having difficulty, but will get to the Kentucky Derby somehow. "I tried to get into a horse van," he explains, "but couldn't find a horse that didn't object. This is the first time a horse has turned me down like that. They are no better than in other Derbies. It must be inflation." He was more determined than ever to see the classic this year, as he had grown a goatee especially for it.

PHILLIPS

We argued that the Kentucky Derby was no better than a half-dozen races closer to home, and had attained its prestige through super publicity. "The Derby has what them other heats lack . . . . atmosphere, mint juleps and double vision," he declared.

"Double vision?" we repeated.

"Sure. After you absorb the Louisville spirit of hospitality a little while you get double vision or your money back. It gives a horse race something you can get nowhere else. I begin to see double before I been in Louisville a coupla hours." Shudda Haddim insisted that the juleps helped in his handicapping. "On two juleps I become a pair of handicappers with two acts of racing sheets and a double set of opinions. On three I begin to dispute my own figures." This reminded us of the story that Shudda Haddim had once called the Derby for the radio audience after a fourth julep. "Right!" he confessed. "I had a lot of trouble getting the 32 horses out of the gate."

"There were only 10 entries that year," we corrected him.

"There were 32 the way I seen it," he insisted, "and when you got that many skinners in a Derby you got a big field. The horses kept spinnin' and I had trouble gettin' 'em into the gate at the start."

"How did you finally do it?"

"I used a spinnin' gate," he replied.

We had a script of the famous mint julep broadcast of the Derby, and read excerpts to him.

"They're off'" it read. "The Four Arcaros broke fast and three of 'em are away in front. . . . Something is coming up fast on the rail. . . . It is the two Atkinsons. . . . They are trying to get through a hole . . . It is hard to get two thoroughbreds through one hole so they have pulled up to wait for more openings. . . . Mehrtens is in a duel with two jockeys. . . . One is Mehrtens. . . . So is the other! . . . What a field! . . . The biggest since Balaclava and Birth of a Nation! . . . Something is away out ahead, but is weaving badly! . . . No, my mistake! . . . The track is weaving badly. . . . I can't identify the horses just now. . . . They are using pinwheels instead of numbers on the saddlecloths today! . . . Guerin's right foot has slipped out of the stirrup. . . . But his other six feet are okay! . . . I only see three Arcaros now. . . . One of 'em must of been scratched. . . . Now they are coming into the homestretch. . . . I am not sure which homestretch. . . . There are three homestretches and they're pretty blurred. . . . I think the horses are using the one in the middle. . . . The one with the direction signs."

"Do you remember that broadcast?" we asked Shudda Haddim.

"Do I?" he explained. "That was the year of the dead heat between the three aardvarks, the purple platypus and a pair of cerise and black anteaters," he sighed.

THE REAL NEWS NEWSREEL

Clear away everything breakable in the American home! . . . The fireside arguments got in to full fury today with the play-by-play reports from the MacArthur hearings. . . . They say that when General MacArthur passes Marshall and Bradley all three wear de-icing equipment. . . . Funniest event of the spring: The news that a copy of its own report was stolen from the Kefauver Crime Committee and that the probers didn't find out who did it. Must have a feeling the thief is not a good video prospect. That's like stealing the collar from the bloodhounds. . . . Rudolph Halley was "on the stand" before Meet the Press the other day and never once answered a question yes or no.

Rita Hayworth now admits she seeks a separation from Prince Aly Khan. . . . Probably will allege intolerable prosperity and chronic affluence. . . . Evidence may include charge that once in a fit of temper he threw a yacht, two palaces and a racing stable at her.

Better Beef

WASHINGTON—(AP) — More economical production from "closed lines" of breeding animals is proving important to the beef industry, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. More than 150 closed lines of beef cattle are now being developed. "Closed line" breeding involves mating an outstanding bull to about 25 outstanding females. Thereafter, only the best bulls are bred back to females of the line. The result is to concentrate the good qualities in succeeding generations.

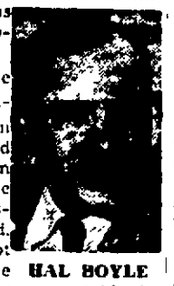
Viticulture

By Inez Robb

DAVIS, CALIF.

THE care and culture of grapes for the express purpose of making joy juice in quantity and quality is one of California's most profitable agricultural ventures, which no one will deny.

Viticulture, the science of growing grapes, is natural to be included as a subject of careful study by the College of Agriculture of the University of California, which is located in this small, lush town. ("Lush" in this instance pertains solely to the local flora.)



HAL BOYLE

The college does indeed include courses in viticulture, and it was my aim today to include in this brisk discourse a good, reliable receipt for home-made champagne, a recipe suitable for basement brew. I was going to offer this as a public service in these trying and inflationary times when a quart of the bubbly is apt to set a celebrator back anywhere from $7 to $17.

HOWEVER, I HAVE been thwarted in my purpose by the fact that the whole subject of viticulture and its honey by-product is inclined to be embarrassing to the college. The department of viticulture is first rate and all that but it is somewhat like nail-tosis, or B.O. No one wishes to discuss it.

The reason? The vigorous ladies of the W.C.T.U.! I have been given to understand that every time it is suggested in print that students are learning to trample out of the grapes of joy for drinking purposes, the W.C.T.U. descends upon the college like the Assyrians on the fold. And you know what havoc they raised!

As a matter of fact, the department of viticulture is against tramping out the grapes, under any circumstances. Pressing, but not tramping, please. Sanitation and all that.

THIS COLLEGE, in a state where both flora and fauna are rampant, has more than a thousand research projects under way ranging from weed control to the study of animal diseases through the use of that atomic by-product, the isotope.

One of its great contributions to the amateur gardener like myself is the pellet seed for both flower and vegetable garden.

This is the system by which each little seed is wrapped in fertilizer and hocus-pocus and then sugar-coated red, pink, green, blue or mauve.

By this process, the gardener need dig no lavish trenches, and scratch no little furrows for seed, each according to its size.

With the purity pellets, an amateur just pokes the seeds barely beneath the surface of mother earth and then jumps back quickly to avoid being smothered by the eager vegetation. With such aids, you, too, can have a green thumb.

ONE OF THE most interesting experiments being conducted here aims to do for milk production what Henry A. Wallace and his late father, Henry C. Wallace, did with corn. By inbreeding corn, the Wallaces increased corn production by 25 percent.

W. M. Regan, professor of animal husbandry, has the most inbred herd of Jersey cattle in the world on the college's experimental farm. Prof. Regan began his experiment at Rutgers College, N. J., some 33 years ago. When the prof was offered a better job by the Cal Aggies, he stipulated that in order to get him, the college would also have to take his 34 Jerseys.

THE HERD NOW numbers 150 Jerseys, even unto the 15th generation. Prof. Regan says there has been definite improvement in the amount of milk and butterfat produced per cow. But it may be another 60 or 70 years before the experiment is ended and proof offered that inbreeding either is or isn't everything.

I asked the professor if all that inbreeding had made the cows terribly stupid. And the professor looked at my pityingly.

"My dear lady," he said. "God made cows stupid and nothing I do could possibly make them more so!"

That for Elsie, the cow.

Spring Fever

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK

PRACTICE puts by the Poor Man's Philosopher:

Are Americans getting better-looking this spring?

An informal poll of those off on watering trough has revealed that everybody thought the girls were more beautiful all right, but for varying reasons.

"They're rounder," said a fellow who likes 'em plump. "Winter feed must have been more plentiful this year."

Inez Robb

"They're more slender," said a fellow who prefers 'em thin. "It's probably some new type of see-through armor they're encased in. It doesn't let them overflow so much."

"No, you're wrong," chortled another. "It's that they all see them more often in bathing suits. They don't wear those circus tents like they did a couple of years back."

"I THINK IT'S BECAUSE there aren't so many of them walking around like ducks," remarked a fourth. "Not so many wearing those flat-footed slippers that make them look like they were hiking off to dance in a ballet."

"It's because they are more intelligent—wisdom always makes people look better, even girls," insisted the office optimist.

"You're all crazy," grunted the office cynic. "They look better to you because you're all a year older yourself. The older you get, the prettier they look—darn life anyway."

Well, whatever the reason, girls, the verdict is unanimous: You look prettier this year than ever.

PERSONALLY, I LIKE stories about children. Heres a couple from the suburbs:

A schoolteacher, taking her third grade pupils over the hurdles of grammar, had brought them to the problem of punctuation marks. They found the apostrophe particularly difficult to understand.

"Apostrophes, apostrophes," complained one little girl. "That's hard to pronounce. Why don't they just call them flying commas?"

And doesn't that make wonderful commonsense?

THE FATHER OF a ten-year-old girl recently received a telephone call from one of her pre-teen-age male schoolmates asking his daughter's hand in marriage.

The startled father fought that request down firmly.

"Well, then, can I take her to the movies Saturday?" asked the small determined voice at the other end of the wire. "We're all going."

The dazed parent decided he had better to consent to this—and did.

"You know," replied his little future son-in-law, cautiously, "Everybody pays his own way in."

Wilberforce Bill Vetoed By Lausche

COLUMBUS, May 4—(AP)—The Ohio Legislature has received its first veto of the present session from Gov. Frank J. Lausche.

It was on the bill to complete the divorce of the state college of education and industrial arts at Wilberforce from the African Methodist Episcopal Church's Wilberforce University.

The veto was sent to the legislature late yesterday a few hours after it had seen another "first" for the session—Senate defeat of a proposed law.

The defeated bill, sponsored by Sen. Robert Pollock (R-Stark), would have limited local governments' amusement tax to three percent. It lost by a 15-12 vote. Bills need 17 affirmative votes to get through the Senate.

The Pollock bill was defeated at the same session in which the Senate approved by a two-vote margin over the required majority a bill permitting cities with smoke abatement ordinances to regulate smoke and air pollution producers as much as three miles beyond their borders. The bill, sponsored by Sen. William H. Deddens (R-Hamilton), was approved 19-10 and goes to the House.

In his Wilberforce bill veto, the governor expressed fear Ohio would be accused of operating a segregated school if the measure becomes law. That view apparently stems from the fact the state college has grown beyond the church school enrollment and half its students now come from outside Ohio.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

THERE ARE four survivors [illegible] and a lonely widow today for whom Kefauver crossed no crime. To them the exciting report on racket combines is just so many dull meaningless words.

Much more important to them is a stocky, little publicized senator now poring over records to decide just what to do with the Senate Crime Committee's findings in the next few months just two days. That is all the dandy U. S. Senate decided to give those still waiting to prove the crime syndicates' links with politics.

Victor Riesel

A right to the crime committee chief, Sen. [illegible] of Maryland, is deciding whether to go back into New York and other big towns, or call the crooks to Washington. One thing is certain. He'll look into more than narcotic rings and white slavers. That is unless the political heat melts him.

That's why the [illegible] widow are more interested in him than in Kefauver. They've been waiting to see for two years after since that [illegible] a delicious May 9th, when the [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

For the dinner the table in the dining room was covered with a Mexican cloth and centered with an arrangement in the same motif. The smaller tables throughout the rooms were colorful in covers and favors of Mexican plants. A farewell party was given Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Tanner of 326 Nye street in their honor. Mr. and Mrs. Tanner are moving to Richwood in the near future. Fifty neighbors and friends met at their home and presented them with gifts. A luncheon was served and music was furnished by Elmer Heller and Mr. Tanner.

MRS. NORMAN CLEVELAND

Vows Exchanged By Miss Berkshire, Norman Cleveland

FOREST LAWN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH was the scene April 27 of the wedding of Miss Beverly Berkshire and Norman Cleveland. Rev. D. E. Schnable, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony which was performed before an alter flanked with baskets of white snapdragons and iris. The ceremony was read at 7:30 p.m.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white ballerina length gown of nylon, styled with a shirred shoulder bodice and net top. Her fingertip veil was of french illusion held in place by a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with an orchid, and her jewelry was a strand of pearls. For something borrowed, she carried a handkerchief belonging to her aunt, Mrs. Dale Mawer.

Mrs. Mawer was matron of honor, and wore a gown of mint organdy styled as that of the bride. She carried a bouquet of green carnations and wore a halo of green shattered carnations.

Dale Mawer served as best man. Candle lighters were Miss Janet Cleveland, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Marilyn Fugitt. Their dresses were alike of orchid organdy ballerina length and they carried lavender carnations and wore halos of lavender shattered carnations.

A program of nuptial music was played by Mrs. J. W. Baker. Ushers were Richard Lewis and Carl Ault. Mr. Ault was a schoolmate of the bridegroom and is home on leave from the U. S. Navy.

The bride will graduate from Harding High School in June and is presently employed at the Pearl Street School office. Mr. Cleveland graduated from Harding with the class of 1949. He is employed by the Erie Railroad.

Mrs. Cleveland is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Berkshire of 237 Jefferson street and Mr. Cleveland is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Cleveland of 365 Glad street.

A reception was given at the home of the bride where fifty guests were served from a table decorated with lime and orchid streamers and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

A rehearsal party was given at the church on April 26 at which time gifts were presented the attendants.

For her wedding trip Mrs. Cleveland wore a beige suit and the orchid she carried at her wedding. Upon their return they will reside at 132½ McWilliams Court.

Weddings

In a mid-April wedding ceremony at Oak Park Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia, Pa., a former Marion girl, Miss Evelyn Myers, became the bride of John Samuel Lowry. Mother of the bride is Mrs. J. H. Grueser of West Philadelphia, and Robert Lowry of Philadelphia is father of the bridegroom. The ceremony was read by Dr. H. MacMurray, pastor of the church, April 14. Marion relatives attended.

The bride was given in marriage by her step father, Mr. Grueser. She wore a gown of Chantilly lace over white satin, and her fingertip veil of nylon illusion was attached to a heart-shaped bonnet of the lace, ornamented with seed pearls. White orchids were the flowers she carried with her prayer book. For the traditional "something old," she carried a lace handkerchief belonging to her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Eva F. Porter of 140 Baker street, Marion.

Miss Josephine Myers, her sister, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of mauve marquisette, and violet colored mitts. Her headdress was a juliet cap of violets and she carried a colonial bouquet of violets and talisman roses.

Bridesmaids were Miss Marilyn Fields of Marion, cousin of the bride, Miss Virginia Lowry, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Elnabeth Steele. They wore gowns of mauve marquisette with matching mitts. Their headdresses were small helmets of matching material, and they carried bouquets of yellow roses and daffodils.

Robert Lowry Jr., served his brother as best man. A program of vocal and organ nuptial music was presented preceding the ceremony.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for 250 guests at Walnut Park Plaza Hotel. After a wedding trip through the South, the bride and her husband will live at Bethlehem, Pa.

Relatives from Marion attending the ceremony besides Miss Fields were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank V. Fields, uncle and aunt of the bride.

Marion Garden Center Notes

"VERMICULITE"

Have you ever wanted to start your own cuttings or seedlings and then decided not to because of the bother of sterilizing the soil or sand. If so you can now buy this mica-like mineral at your lumber yard or building supply house.

This mineral is processed under great heat which expands like "puffed" breakfast cereals. It supplies a surer, longer lasting supply of moisture for plants growing in it than does the freer draining sand. Yet it is so open textured, if not forcibly compacted in bench or flat that the air spaces it contains lessen the danger of over-watering and of "drowning" young plants. Less likely than sand or soil to "wash" when watered from above. It is especially desirable when small seeds are sown. It may be mixed with potting soil or adding it to beds in which the soil is too heavy or too light, as humus is used.

The fact that vermiculite does not pack about the large, dense root system it tends to promote, means that the plantlets can be removed and planted elsewhere with minimum injury and shock.

Galion Woman Originator of Party Decorations Used Throughout State

Special to The Star

GALION — Mrs. Elnora Newell, 31-year-old Galion housewife, wanted an interest outside her routine housework. She wanted to do something to express herself and at the same time not take her away from her duties as wife and mother.

A lover of art work, Mrs. Newell thought she would like to have a hobby in her home in which she could make things for others.

Today, Mrs. Newell's party-craft shop is the mecca for clever hostesses, clubs, school organizations, firms and businesses planning parties. She specializes in making original centerpieces and table decorations out of paper. Her shop is believed unique in Ohio. Mrs. Newell's precision cutting turns out original patterns and decorations. Her scissors are her only tool.

One of her products becoming the most widely known, is a group of card-board caricatures known as "The Highway Five." Mrs. Newell has reserved rights in making sets of these which are spreading to cities throughout the nation.

The Highway Five was originated by Mrs. Newell when she was called upon to provide decorations for a safety meeting of the Galion Business and Professional Women's Club. Don Mumford, of New York City, Superintendent of Safety of the New York Central Railroad system, a former Galion man, was invited to Galion to speak at the meeting. Mrs. Newell was asked for banquet decorations. Mumford is the author of a booklet, "The Highway Five." In it, he has pictures of the five different highway warning signs which "come to life" in a safety story for children. Mrs. Newell used these signs for her theme, and put arms and legs on them to make them into life-like caricature dolls.

The signs in the booklet are known as Recky, Cross Bucky, Cirky, Octy, and Dimey, representing the rectangular signs along the road which announce speed limit and other information, the cross sign at the railroad tracks, the circle sign which warns of a railroad crossing, the octagon shaped sign which says "stop," and the diamond shaped sign which announces curves ahead.

These signs were first placed in the elementary city and parochial schools of Galion along with a safety program which is promoted in the schools with the School Safety Patrol. Sets became known as Mrs. Thomas took some with her to automobile club conferences.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Newell's highway caricature dolls gained national recognition when they were featured in an article in "Safety Education" magazine published by the National Safety Council. The article told about Mr. Mumford using these signs when he appeared at a banquet of 600 people in Springfield, Mass.

Mrs. Newell is now supplying sets to schools at Bucyrus, Tiffin, Bellaire, Cuyahoga Falls and in other states.

Mrs. Newell's other paper art decorations are varied. She is in the midst of her busiest season, making decorations for club banquets, school banquets, Chamber of Commerce groups, business concerns and other groups where a banquet is being planned.

"Gus," the stork, has really been getting around, she said. The bird with long beak, made entirely of paper, has been in constant demand for parties for mothers. Her old fashioned buggies will go to Crestline for Centennial banquets in May and June.

Mrs. Newell came to Galion eight years ago from Upper Sandusky. She was graduated from Marseilles High School in Wyandot County, an honor student in 1937. Her husband, Edward, who has encouraged her from the beginning, is a welder at Central Ohio Steel Products Company, here. He is a veteran of World War II. They have one son, Larry, nine years old.

carried to high Russian authorities.

U S high commissioner Walter J. Donnelly asked Soviet authorities to join Americans in an investigation.

Gresens was slain as he and his companion, Cpl. Jack Morgan, were on a patrol in the international sector of the city. They had challenged the Russians outside the Cafe Oriental on a poorly lit street.

The Russians, armed with machine pistols, turned on the Americans and began firing. Gresens fell from several wounds. Morgan took cover behind a nearby church and fired six shots in return.

The Russians escaped to the Soviet sector, eluding an American patrol that was summoned by Morgan.

American military police are in charge of the international sector this month. The responsibility for maintaining order in the sector is rotated each month among the four occupying powers.

Wheat

production since the dust storms and drought of 1936, according to an Associated Press survey.

C W Lane, crop forecaster for Sante Fe Railway, said "winter wheat prospects in the Southwest are the poorest in many years—perhaps the worst ever considering the acreage planted."

Wheat State

Lane predicted a 125,000,000 bushel crop in Kansas, which outproduces sister states and boasts on its auto license plates that it is the "wheat state." That figure is 27,000,000 bushels under the federal estimate.

H. L. Collins, federal agricultural statistician, yesterday wound up a 1,400-mile inspection trip of Kansas and said abandonment of seeded wheat acreage in the western third of the state was the heaviest in 11 years.

The voices of Lane and Collins supported A. W. Erickson, a Minneapolis, Minn., forecaster who travels the wheat belt all winter. Erickson said in early April that wheat plants were dead in 80 percent of a 60,000 square mile area he visited.

Killers

Weather and bugs were the wheat killers. Culprits in a crop that is especially important with famine in India and the increased consumption because of the Korean war.

Planted last fall, the winter wheat crop started a battle immediately with drought. Some Texas counties didn't have rain for four months. Then came a heavy winter kill. In northwest Kansas the temperature dropped 80 degrees—to 21 below zero—in 36 hours, enough to freeze out growing seedlings.

In the next attack wave came worms, aphids, red spiders and the dreaded greenbugs. The latter pests were controlled to a certain extent by insect cannibals—lady bugs, beetles and wasps.

To recoup, farmers have plowed up the thin strands of wheat and planted substitutes—cotton, corn, oats and sorghums.

DITCH ESTIMATE APPROVED

Marion County commissioners yesterday approved the engineer's report of costs and assessments on the Foos Ditch in Scott Township. They set June 7 as the deadline for receiving bids for the project. The project, a one and one-half mile improvement on the open ditch, was petitioned for by Harley L. Foos of near Marion and others. Eight landowners will be assessed. These assessments range from $693 for the DeKalb Agricultural Association to $31 for individual landowners. The estimated cost of the project has been placed at $2,308.20 by the county engineer.

"Greatest Political Mistake In 100 Years"

MacArthur Scores Loss Of China To Communism

WASHINGTON, May 4—(AP)—The loss of vast China to communism—"the greatest political mistake in a hundred years in the Pacific"—keys Gen. Douglas MacArthur's split over Far East policy with the Truman administration.

The general so characterized the loss of China to the Reds in his testimony before two Senate committees yesterday, sharply challenging administration China policy.

By implication he made clear his view that the assistance provided Chiang Kai-shek ... the time of the ... in the Pacific was ... help Chiang overcome ... munist enemies. Ma... senators ... would have ...

nese government enough aid to have checked the growing tide of communism.

"A very little help and assistance in my belief at that time would have accomplished that purpose" he said. The questioning did not extend to what form he thinks the help should have taken.

Furnished $2 Billion

The administration position has been that about $2,000,000,000 worth of postwar aid was furnished to Chiang Kai-shek, without counting sales of surplus U S war goods at marked-down prices.

But as the Truman administration has made clear—this country's program was designed to promote a peaceful settlement in China. It was not designed to encourage Chiang to try to overcome the Communists by force of arms.

MacArthur declared that the administration's 1945-46 policy of seeking a merger of the Chinese Communists and Nationalists never had a chance. He put it this way:

"There was just about as much chance of getting them together as that oil and water will mix."

It was in 1945 that President Truman sent Gen. George C. Marshall, now Secretary of Defense, to China as special ambassador. Marshall was instructed in vain to negotiate a permanent settlement between the Chinese Communists and Nationalists.

Gov't Orders 5 Percent Cut in Steel for Autos

WASHINGTON, May 4 (AP)—The government today ordered another five percent cut in the use of steel for passenger automobiles and station wagons. That reduces permitted consumption to 75 percent of the level in the first half of 1950.

On July 1 the National Production Authority announced a further expected cut will reduce usage to 70 percent for passenger cars, station wagons and light trucks.

At mid-year also NPA said it is anticipated the steel going into medium trucks will be limited to 100 percent of the ... level and for heavy types of more than 16,000 pounds to 120 percent of that base period.

THE HARDING HIGH SCHOOL BRASS SEXTET, shown above, rehearses in the crowded confines of the band instrument room, formerly the balcony of the school gym. No other quarters are available for their practice sessions, school officials report. Reading clockwise, sextet members are Theran Donough, trombone; Gene Winters, baritone; Edward Porter, bass; Steve Lytle, French horn, James Larsen, trumpet; and (back to camera) Tom Tatham, trumpet. Homer Huffman, not shown, is director of the sextet.

Support of Bond Issue Urged

Sextet Must Rehearse In Instrument Room

This is one of a series of articles, illustrated with pictures, showing the urgent need for passing at the May 8 election a $2,900,000 school bond issue. The money will be used for a new senior high school and improvements to other city schools.

The Harding High School brass sextet, like other Harding musical groups, has reached its present state of excellence under conditions which should surprise most Marionites.

Its rehearsal room is the present band instrument room which was formerly the balcony of the Harding gymnasium. Acoustics in this room are the worst possible for a rehearsal hall. Homer Huffman, band director, has marveled how sextet members could practice at all in such cramped quarters where the sounds of trumpets, tuba and baritone horn dicochet from wall to wall.

The new senior high school building, which will be constructed if the $2,900,000 bond issue is approved Tuesday will have adequate rehearsal rooms for school music groups.

Air Force to Add 40,000 Women by Next June

WASHINGTON, May 4—(AP)—The Air Force will add more than 40,000 women by next June, it was announced today.

This will raise the Women's Air Force strength from the present 7,000 level to about 48,000, of whom 4,000 will be officers and 44,000 enlisted air women.

The Air Force plans to commission 200 officers monthly beginning in June. At the same time the enlistment quota will be jumped from 480 each month to 1,700. Thereafter enlistments will rise to a projected level of some 4,000 monthly during the first half of 1952.

RAIL UNION MEETS

Joseph Longson of Hawthorne, N. J., chairman, and Leonard Serino of Binghamton, N. Y., vice chairman of the Erie-Susquehanna System, Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes, were honor guests and the principal speakers at a meeting of Local No. 1900, Wednesday night in the Central Labor Union Hall. Public affairs and local lodge business were discussed. A social hour followed the business session. Monthly meetings of the local lodge are held alternately in Marion and Ashland. Meetings here are held on the first Wednesday of the month.

Vote Against Bucyrus School Head

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, May 4—The Bucyrus board of education voted 3 to 2 last night not to renew the contract of the City School Superintendent D C. Baer.

No reason was given by school board president Charles L. Wiles for the surprise move. The action was taken at a regular meeting of the board last night.

Mr. Baer was offered a teaching position in the school system by a unanimous vote of the board. He had no comment to offer on the board's move nor his plans when questioned by a reporter.

Mr. Baer has been associated with the system for 33 years. He came to Bucyrus as a science teacher and in 1924 he was named Bucyrus High School principal. He has been school superintendent since Aug 1, 1935.

He was awarded a contract last May for one year at $5,400 per year. The contract expires July 31.

Board President Wiles reported a special meeting of the board will be held later this month to consider applications for the position. Other members of the board are: Roy Widman, James E. Higgins, James Overholt, and W. Harold Wilson, President Wiles.

The Bucyrus school system has five grade schools and one high school.

CARDINGTON MEETING SET

Cardington St. Paul Lutheran organizations meeting next week include the Sunday School board Monday night, and Ladies' Aid Society Thursday afternoon, with Mrs. Gerald Couts as hostess.

Subversives

by counsel cut it short and said: "I have not."

Mrs. Taylor wore a black picture hat that nearly hid her counsel, Charles A. Chandler of Cleveland, in their numerous conferences during her testimony. Her beaded purse was decorated with blue lucite squares showing a dove and the word 'peace."

Held slightly above the opened purse was a paper with these penciled words "I claim my constitutional right to refuse to answer that question for the reason that any answer may tend to incriminate me."

Her first request on taking the stand was for a drink of water. It was brought to her in a soft drink bottle from which she sipped during testimony. She mopped her brow frequently. The hot, third-floor hearing room in the statehouse was filled with spectators.

Mrs. Taylor recalled dates and schedules in getting to the Washington and Warsaw peace meetings but could remember almost no names of delegates.

After she refused to name others from Youngstown at the Washington meet "for fear I may incriminate myself," Isaacs said,

"What is there about these people, who if you mention their names, would make you guilty of a crime?

Maintains Innocence

"I don't know what you might have on them," Mrs. Taylor replied. "I don't know why you have me here."

Mrs. Taylor said she and "Women of Ohio" raised $600 to pay for her trip to Warsaw. But she said she didn't know how she happened to get a "call" sent to delegates. Nor could she remember about the speeches or her conversation with others there.

And Mrs. Taylor said she didn't know why she was among the 19 delegates invited to visit Russia after the peace congress, which Isaacs termed a Communist peace "Fake."

Isaacs asked her if she read the Daily Worker, Communist newspaper. "I'm sure you do," he said holding up the Jan. 7, 1951 Sunday edition. "Your picture appears in it twice."

"Looks nice, doesn't it," Mrs. Taylor said.

One of the pictures identified her as a member of a group in a "cathedral inside the Kremlin."

Mrs. Taylor said she has been making speeches over the state about the peace congress. But she was vague about the substance of her talks. They were in Cleveland, Dayton and Cincinnati, she said.

Asks Details

House Speaker Gordon C. Renner (R-Hamilton), a committee member, wanted details. Mrs. Taylor said she was invited to make speeches and her expenses were paid by those groups.

The Cleveland talks, she said, were in homes, a hall and before study groups. She said the hall was a part of Western Reserve University but couldn't recall the name. Fifty or 60 people attended, she said.

Speeches in Cincinnati were in the Manse Hotel, five churches and homes she recalled.

Mrs. Taylor said she had visited Antioch College in Yellow Springs. She said she wasn't familiar with the signers of a telegram from Yellow Springs to the committee. It said Esther Newcomb and 26 other signers were "alarmed" because Mrs. Taylor had been summoned to testify.

Another telegraphic protest was signed by Walter Lohman of Dayton.

A letter to Robinson, signed by Oliver S. Loud of Yellow Springs, read:

"As a member of the Progressive party, I have known Mrs. Taylor during the past three years. I have thought of her as carrying courageously and self-sacrificingly her responsibility as an American citizen."

Pressed for names by Speaker Renner, Mrs. Taylor said she didn't want to give them because of the way newspapers handled them.

Jury To Give Moran Verdict

NEW YORK, May 4—(AP)—The jury in politician James J. Moran's perjury trial has been asked to decide whether he lied to the Kefauver committee as part of a "calculated scheme deeply rooted in the monstrous alliance between crime and politics."

Moran, a long-time pal and political associate of former mayor, William O'Dwyer, is the first Senate crime probe witness to be brought to trial here.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Eugene F. Roth, who outlined the issues to the federal court jury, said the government might wind up its case today.

As the trial opened yesterday, Roth told the jurors it was up to them to decide whether Moran lied to protect some one, or whether his testimony was in line with a "calculated scheme."

Roth charged that Moran lied to the Kefauver committee to avoid questions that would have exposed his relationship with Louis Weber, a Brooklyn numbers racket boss.

The prosecutor said Moran "took the chance of a perjury trial" rather than subject himself to further examination before the committee.

Cabbage is grown in most parts of the world, but chiefly in temperate areas.

Fighting Flares In Palestine

ISRAELI-SYRIAN FRONTIER, May 4—(AP)—Heavy fire blazed along the Israeli-Syrian frontier today in sharp battles, with heavy casualties on both sides.

Israeli military spokesmen said Syrian troops and regulars threw two attacks on Israeli positions near Tel El Mutella on the north shore of the Sea of Galilee near the river Jordan. Both the attacks, almost two miles inside Israeli territory, were repulsed, the Israelis said.

ELKS PLAN PICNIC

A stag picnic to be held Saturday was planned for members of Marion Lodge 32, B.P.O.E., when they met Thursday night at the Elks Home. During the meeting Karl Konkle gave a report on the recent spring meeting held in Toledo.

'NOW ALL OF A SUDDEN HE IS SO HELPLESS,' SAYS HIS WIFE

"Have you ever seen a shocked person . . . I am living with one now . . . He used to order me all over the place. All of a sudden, he is so helpless," says Mrs. Lucile Vogeler in contrasting the Robert Vogeler she knew before 17 months of Communist imprisonment and her stubborn, gray husband of today. They are shown in New York making plans for treatment and a long rest. Their sons, Bobby (left) and Billy are shown watching a baseball game. The Vogelers will go first to Bethesda, Md., for a few days. Then they will go west, perhaps to Colorado, Mrs. Vogeler said.

Today's Women

Beautiful Blonde Rips Hole In Iron Curtain

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

IT TOOK a beautiful blonde to rip a hole in the Iron Curtain—a hole big enough to extricate her husband from the clutches of the international gangsterman.

Her name is Lucile Vogeler. Her story is a desperate drama of modern espionage and intrigue that backs all fiction writers off the map.

Now she's safely back home in America with her husband, Robert A. Vogeler, and their two little sons, Billy and Bobby, let's take a closer look at this small, blonde dynamo who succeeded in calling the bluff of the biggest cloak-and-dagger specialists in Joe Stalin's bully brigade.

By throwing a case of international hysterics in the laps of President Truman and Secretary of State Dean Acheson, this fragile-appearing little woman pried her husband out of a Hungarian prison cell, when all the world's bigwigs were shaking their heads and muttering through their beards.

"It's too bad—he was a fine fellow—but you know how these things are."

WHEN SHE HEARD that her husband had "confessed" to charges of espionage during the travesty of a trial in Budapest in February 1950, pretty, blonde Mrs. Vogeler merely retorted briskly:

"Ridiculous! He's been drugged."

Then she proceeded to show the world, including Messrs. Truman and Acheson, what a woman can do when she gets fighting mad.

From the time her husband, vice president of the International Telephone and Telegraph Co., was kidnaped by Hungarian Communists Nov. 18, 1949, until he walked out of prison, a free man, 17 months later, Lucile Vogeler did not once give up hope or stop fighting.

Although warned by friends and diplomats that her own safety and that of her sons was in grave danger, Mrs. Vogeler brushed them aside and waged a one-woman war on two sides of the Atlantic.

SHE FLEW TO LONDON to make her plea for action personally to Dean Acheson on one of his visits there last spring. She cabled President Truman. She harrassed all the minor diplomats in sight. She worked out a plan for economic sanctions against Hungary to force the release of her husband. She pulled out all the stops.

She kept her two boys healthy and well-fed, she bombarded congressmen and politicians, she kept up a ceaseless barrage of strictly feminine hystrics—and last Saturday her husband walked out of the Communist prison, after 17 months of despair.

The only preparation Mrs. Vogeler had for her sensational performance as a one-woman army was winning a beauty contest in her native Belgium before her marriage.

She met Robert Vogeler on a train to Switzerland in 1939. He was the picture of the handsome, successful young American business man. She was the beautiful fairy princess of the storybooks—without a title, of course. They were married in Belgium and returned to the United States the same year.

LUCILE LIKED THE Vogeler folks. She liked America. She became an American citizen in 1945, and shortly after went to Vienna to join her husband, who had been transferred there by I. T. and T.

During her long ordeal in Vienna, Lucile Vogeler had the comfort and support of her equally beautiful sister, Pia Eykens, who stayed with her.

When she learned that her husband's release at last was imminent, Mrs. Vogeler permitted herself one frivolous remark:

"I've unpacked some beautiful nylon nighties."

Love Triumphant

By ADELE GARRISON

I knew what the answer to Faith's question would be, but knew also, that I was not the one to make that reply. We were standing now, and I put my hands on her shoulders, and looked down into her upturned eyes, shining with the belief she always cherishes, that, somehow, I can make miracles come to pass.

"I cannot tell you that yet," I said. "But here is something I wish you to do for me right away. Go into the living room, ask Granddad prettily if you may speak to him, then tell him that Mummy asks that he come down here for just a minute or two. Can you remember that?"

She straightened her shoulders, and raised her head so that I could see a certain canniness in her eyes. I knew that her mind was racing ahead of mine, guessing what I meant to do. But she did not give her thought words, and I was grateful.

"Here it is," she said, and repeated verbatim, the message I had given her.

"That is perfect," I told her. "Now be careful how you ask Grandaddy the question."

"I'll go close to him," she said, "but stand very still until he says: 'What do you want, my darling?' as he always does."

"That will be just right," I told her, and she skipped out of the room, and down the hall, while I sat still, wondering if I had done the right thing, but remembering my father's assurance, and Dicky's corroboration of it, that the danger to young Peter was not imminent, that it was almost certain the key figure my father was trailing had no knowledge of his existence, and that the safeguards my father was using were more precautionary than anything else. Surely, the attendance of Faith at the farewell luncheon could be managed, as well as that of her grandmother.

I had not long to wait in reverie. The sound of my father's rather heavy footsteps, and Faith's light, skipping ones came to my ears, and I rose to greet them, as they came, hand in hand through the door.

"Faith sounded as if this were most important," my father said, when he once was inside the door, and his tone intimated that it had better be important enough to justify his summons. But I was ready for him.

"Faith has asked something which I have no right to answer," I said. "It must be your decision. She is eager and anxious to stay with young Peter in the Veritzen suite, as long as she is needed, and I have quieted her fears that I might be in danger down here. But she is heart-broken over something else, and I think it better that she tell you about it herself, instead of my being her messenger. I knew that you would not wish to talk to her in the living room, so I sent her to ask you to come down here."

His eyes twinkled as he looked at me.

"Haven't I heard Richard refer to you as Mrs. Machiavelli?" he queried, but did not wait for an answer. Instead he sat down in the easy chair, and took Faith on his knees.

"Now, Baby," he said in the "gooey" tones which fatuous grandfathers keep for their small grandchildren, "What was it you wanted to ask me?"

She looked up at him trustingly.

"I know I mustn't ask for anything that would upset the apple cart," she said, and I saw him gulp down a chuckle, "but I had counted so much on having this last lunch with the boys; they are going away early this afternoon, and now, I've got to go up away from them right away."

"No, you don't Baby," her grandfather said "You shall have luncheon with your brother and your cousins. I don't know just how I can arrange it, but it shall be done."

"Blessed Art Thou Among Women"
THE Angel Gabriel was sent from God to a city of Galilee, named Nazareth, to a virgin espoused to Joseph; and the virgin's name was Mary.
The angel said, "Hail, thou that are highly favored, the Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women." When she saw him, she was troubled. The angel said, "Fear not, Mary: for thou hast found favor with God. And behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a Son, and shalt call His name Jesus. He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the Highest . and of His Kingdom there shall be no end."
Then Mary said, "How shall this be, seeing I know not a man?" And the angel answered, "The Holy Ghost shall come upon thee, and the power of the Highest shall overshadow thee: therefore also that holy thing which shall be born of thee shall be called the Son of God."

In Loving Memory

*Of John E. Barkley who departed this life May 4, 1948
This day brings sad memories
Of our loved one gone to rest.
And those who think of him each day
Are the ones who loved him best
No one knows the silent heartaches,
Only those who lost can tell
Of the grief we bear in silence
For a loved one we loved so well
Friends may think that we forgot him
When they see us smile,
But how little they know the sorrow
That is hid behind a smile.

Circus Here Tomorrow; Two Shows Scheduled

Saturday will be circus day in Marion with the Mills Bros. three-ring Circus presenting two performances at the Crystal Lake show grounds.

The Junior Woman's Board of the Marion City Hospital is bringing the 1951 edition of the Mills Bros. Circus to Marion for the benefit of the groups' pediatrics ward fund. Performances of the "world's largest motorized circus" will be at 2 and 8 p. m.

In cooperation with business and professional men, industrial concerns, fraternal organizations and individuals, who have sponsored tickets, the Junior Woman's Board is making it possible for hundreds of less fortunate children to see the circus Saturday afternoon.

The nearly 100 motorized units of the Mills Bros. Circus are to arrive in Marion at dawn tomorrow, coming here from Sidney. The circus then will go to Mansfield for shows on Monday.

Performers from 18 nations, including France, Italy, England, Greece, Switzerland, Holland and Spain, are with the circus, along with clowns. Also featured are a menagerie and a horse show.

Some of the principal acts in the show will be by the Big Top Rhythmettes in twin all-girl aerial ballets, the Wallabies, English acro-whirls, the Rickerts, Dutch juggling queens, the Antonettes, a Bavarian teeterboard family, the Boginos, Italian acrobats, Joanidis who does juggling on the slack wire, the Valintinos, who perform on the swinging high perch, and the Flying La Forms, French aerial gymnasts.

Advance tickets for the circus still are available in a number of downtown business places. From the advance sales, the Junior Woman's Hospital Board receives the heaviest proceeds.

SCENES FROM THE MILLS BROS. CIRCUS, which will be presented in Marion tomorrow, are shown above. The circus is playing here under sponsorship of the Junior Woman's Board of the Marion City Hospital. Shows are scheduled for 2 and 8 p. m.

When Low Salt Intake Is Advised

The salt shaker is by no means the only source of salt. If it were, both the doctor and the patient, in cases where the so-called salt-free diet is required, would have a far easier time of it. But salt, or rather that part of it which is harmful in such disorders as high blood pressure, chronic kidney disease, and certain heart ailments, is to be found in nearly all foods.

Salt is made up of two chemicals—sodium and chlorine—and it is the former which it is important to restrict. Practically all foods contain some sodium. Certain substances used in cookery, such as baking soda, contain it in great amounts, and thus may be greatly injurious for patients to whom salt is forbidden. Sodium, in one form or another, is added to many food, such as canned vegetables, and baked foods of all kinds, such as crackers, cakes, and cookies.

Sodium phosphate is added to many uncooked breakfast foods. Sodium benzoate may be added to canned goods as a preservative. All animal products, such as milk, cheese, eggs, and seafoods, are rather high in sodium; cured or processed meats are particularly high in sodium. Vegetables, fruits, nuts and cereals, if not salted, are comparatively low in sodium. Thus, while a salt-free diet is practically impossible, a diet low in sodium can be planned if the matter is handled with care.

Some sodium is necessary for normal nutrition. A lack causes weakness, muscle cramps, and tiredness. Persons who sweat a great deal may have to take additional sodium in the form of salt tablets.

As stated before, certain illnesses are treated by restricting the amount of sodium taken into the body. The doctor must decide when such a low sodium diet should be used and will outline exactly how much of a restriction is necessary.

There are certain salt substitutes on the market which are helpful, since they make the low sodium diet more palatable and, hence, easier to follow.

Questions and Answers

R. E.: What causes the blood vessels to break under the skin? I have high blood pressure and I am 75 years old. Is this a sign of cancer?"

Answer: The condition which you describe is not a sign of cancer. High blood pressure may be a contributing factor. Hardening of the arteries might be another contributory cause, and an added fragility of the blood vessels may also be a factor.

You are in need of a thorough physical examination to determine the cause; then proper treatment can be suggested.

Limit Put on Bombing, MacArthur Says

contrary to those being pursued by the government.

MacArthur: "I wouldn't have a brigadier general or anyone else on my staff that didn't freely and frankly give me his opinions in contradiction to my own. The very value of a subordinate is the freedom with which he expresses his initiative."

For that matter, MacArthur said, he had had officers under his command who disagreed with him. He added: "I have frequently had officers under my command, not only in my staff, but in my command, that disagreed with me completely and I listened to them and on occasions they have convinced me that I was wrong and they were right. That, I believe, is fundamental."

Still Closed

The hearings are being held behind closed doors, but reporters are given a stenographic transcript of what is said—after it has first been "combed" by State and Defense Department censors to take out information they think might injure the national security.

Knowland's protest dealt with messages exchanged between MacArthur and the Pentagon about bombing operations in Korea itself.

"I knew that our Air Force was under some restrictions in going north of the Yalu (river), but I had no understanding that there were restriction within Korea itself, which was under aggression from the Chinese Communists," Knowland said.

He added that this material "is pertinent" and ought to be included in the public records of the committees' hearings.

MacArthur told the senators yesterday that he was first instructed not to bomb within five miles of the Yalu, the boundary between Korea and Manchuria.

That would have meant the Chinese Communists, pouring into Korea last fall, could come in for five miles without air attack.

Changed After Protest

MacArthur said this first order was changed after he protested vigorously and he then was allowed to bomb to the border. He testified his planes then were permitted to bomb to the middle of the bridges over the river.

Knowland said that if a Pentagon message dealing with this could not be made public in its original wording, it ought to be paraphrased and given to newsmen.

Knowland said he wants to explore the matter with the Department of Defense.

Chairman Russell (D-Ga) of the combined committees said "if you do not arrive at a satisfactory understanding, the committee will hear reasons assigned by the department for the deletion."

"If they do not appear to us to be valid, we can then vote to release the matter," Russell continued. "I know of no other way that we can handle this whole question with safety."

MacArthur, who returned to New York after yesterday's session with the senators, flew back this morning and took his place in the witness chair at 9:34 a.m. (E.S.T.).

The 71-year-old general showed no signs of fatigure from the strenuous day he put in on Thursday when for five hours he poured out, often in emotional terms, his bitter disagreement with the Truman administration policies on the Korean war.

"Feels Fine"

Senator Byrd (D-Va), one of the committeemen designated to greet MacArthur, told reporters the general said he "felt fine" and had a good night's sleep.

Russell expressed hope the committee could complete today at least the first phase of its questioning of MacArthur, but added it might be necessary to recall him after the Joint Chiefs of Staff have testified.

One of the focal points of the inquiry is whether MacArthur's tactics in the Korean war had the full backing of the Joint Chiefs.

In the flareup over censorship, Russell told MacArthur the committee wanted to make it clear that the Defense Department was not being asked to "censor your testimony in the ordinary sense of that word."

The committee asked the department to provide an expert to pass on the testimony before it is released to newsmen, he said, and eliminate "items which in his best professional military judgment should be deleted for security reasons."

Sen. Russell Baffled

Russell commented that as a layman "I must confess that the decisions that have been made by the persons who are supposed to be highly specialized in this field are highly baffling to me."

He apparently referred to some of the deletions made yesterday by the Defense Department censor, Vice Adm. Arthur C. Davis.

"I realize," said Russell, "that some procedure must be adopted to protect the security of this testimony, and we can't guard it piece by piece. It must conform to a broad pattern." Then he added:

"It is impossible to say conclusively and on the spur of the moment that a specific item or specific series of data are or are not subject to classification. They must be considered, of course, and evaluated in relation to the whole security picture.

"The problem as I understand it can be summed up in a single sentence. No one can say whether a particular word or phrase or that a sentence is a security item; the entire sentence itself and perhaps its relation to other sentences in the paragraph are what count."

Had No Questions

In addition to Admiral Davis, Russell said Adrian Fisher had been assigned to the committee from the State Department. "But I am advised that on yesterday he had no occasion to question any of the evidence."

Russell added that all of the material had been handled "by the expert assigned by the defense establishment."

Russell announced that he had appointed Knowland and Senator McMahon (D-Conn) as a subcommittee to examine the original of any paraphrased documents to determine if their meaning was changed in the paraphrasing.

Russell said that as a layman he couldn't see why the censors had cut out of the record the number of submarines MacArthur testified yesterday that the Russians have on hand.

"I could not see where it was important," the Georgia senator said.

Knowland said:

"I could not either, because it has been published in many places, but at least I am not raising an issue to that, but I do raise the issue on several pages of the testimony that were deleted."

Russell read into the record a letter to Felix Larkin, defense department counsel, in which the chairman said:

"The sole criterion for making a deletion from the original stenographic transcript will be whether the publication of the material would be harmful to the national interest because of security considerations." He said he recognized in addition to strictly military security, "the corollary consideration of policy security" relationships with other nations.

Under questioning by Senator MacMahon, MacArthur said the reason air operations have not been able to stop Chinese Red reenforcements in Korea is that U.N. planes "don't have the latitude of operation to hit deeper than the Yalu."

"You understand the Yalu is only two or three days' march from the front line," he said. "It gives the air a very limited opportunity, especially when you would have a coupe of days of obscure weather where the air couldn't hit, you could get troops down from the Yalu to the front line without being subjected to any air attack.

"But if the air could go where they are assembling—could go to the foundation roots where these armies are being assembled to be thrown at us—they could destroy them.

"At least they could so decimate them that their efficacy when they reached the front lines would be most materially decreased.

Magnificent Job

"The air has done a magnificent job in Korea."

McMahon said MacArthur seemed to be recommending a "limited war" against China.

"We would not commit American ground forces to the operation in China under any circumstances, as I understand it," the Connecticut senator observed.

"I would not advise it, no, sir," the general replied. "That is, of course, with the general limitation of the contingencies of campaign.

"I believe it would be a master folly to contemplate the use of United States ground troops in China. I do not believe it would be necessary."

McMahon asked how the armed strength of the Soviet Union would be impaired if the United States were to fight a victorious war with Red China and Russia did not come into it.

M'Arthur Answers

MacArthur replied:

"As I have said so frequently, Senator, our purpose, as I see it in the Korean war, is to force China to stop her aggression in North Korea. It does not necessarily mean the overwhelming of China; it simply means that sufficient pressure be brought upon her to make her stop killing our boys by the thousands in Korea.

"Just how that might impinge with reference to the Soviet forces, is purely speculative."

Then McMahon said "well, General, you make a pretty good speculation if Russia does not come in, and we do go into China in a limited way for the further extension of a now limited war, it wouldn't impair the 175 divisions that the Soviets are reputed to have, or the 16,000 operational aircraft, nor her stockpile and growing stockpile of atomic weapons, is that not true?"

MacArthur: "If you mean to say, as you yourself said yesterday, calling attention to the alliance between the Soviet and China, that the diminution of China's potential power doesn't diminish the total power of communism throughout the world, why, that would be fallacious, Senator."

Respects Joint Chiefs

MacArthur twice answered "I have" when asked by McMahon if he had "a high opinion" of the present Joint Chiefs of Staff and of Secretary of Defense George Marshall.

McMahon asked whether MacArthur had any opinion as to when this country "will be best prepared for a war that would include the Soviet Union, if one had to come."

MacArthur replied that such studies "are made by higher authorities than my own." He said he was sure the studies were available to McMahon.

McMahon then asked MacArthur, as a former chief of the Army staff, whether he realized the higher authorities have to take into account factors "which a theater commander can not take into account."

"Unquestionably," MacArthur replied.

Senator Byrd (D-Va) said MacArthur was anxious to get through with his testimony as soon as possible.

Asked if he thought the senators might finish with MacArthur today, Byrd said he thought they could "if they quit repeating themselves in all those question."

Chairman Russell (D-Ga) of the armed services committee, who is presiding at the investigation, said yesterday he doubted if the questioning of the general could be finished today.

MacArthur arrived back in the capital from New York by plane at 8:58 a.m. and went directly to the committee room.

A reporter noted that the general had bumped his head against the top of his car in New York this morning and asked if he had suffered any ill effects.

MacArthur shook his head and laughed, without replying.

There were even fewer spectators at the airport than yesterday.

The general left by motor immediately for Capitol Hill.

At the Senate office building, the five-star general went immediately to the big caucus room on the third floor. He was 15 minutes early.

Senators Byrd (D-Va) and Bridges (R-NH) greeted him at the door of the building. Byrd said the general had told them not to go to the trouble of meeting him at the airport as they did yesterday.

Hits Head

As the general stooped to get into the car at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York he struck his head against the top of the doorframe and reeled back. His personal pilot, Lt. Col. Anthony Story caught him and prevented a possible fall.

A small group of Senate office workers, photographers and newsmen clustered about and there was a smattering of applause as he entered the committee room here.

Followed closely by Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, his aide, and a few Senate and committee officials, MacArthur strode rapidly into the room with a smile.

Policemen had roped off a path inside the office building but it was not necessary.

Byrd said MacArthur would like to finish his testimony today. The plans were to go straight through the day, the senator said.

MacArthur ate lunch in the caucus room and did not plan to leave the room until he was ready to return to New York.

Marsox Here Tonight After Giant Lacing

Through the SPORTSCOPE with A.L. McCLAIN

MR. AVERAGE MARSOX OF '51. The average young man who plays ball for Marion in the Ohio-Indiana League this season is 19 years and five months of age, weighs 179, and stands six feet one inch in height.

He is single, enjoys hunting and fishing, is adept in other sports and considers his greatest thrill in baseball to his signing of a Boston contract. He believes he has a future in baseball and is working hard to get to the top.

He is employed during the off season and got his start in baseball either in semi-pro ball or was spotted by a scout while playing in a high school game.

SIGNED LIFE PACTS. In contrast to only one married player on the team last season, Pitcher Bob Penny, five are in the matrimonial fold. They are Penny, George Radick, Dn Borger, Marv Stendel and Baker Hyde. Stendel, Radick and Hyde are Pops.

TIME OUT FOR LAUGHS. Ed Sadowski, catcher, lists as his most humorous moment in baseball as the time a fly ball was hit to the infield and came down atop the pitcher's head and bounced off to hit the shortstop in the head . . . some bean ball.

Phil Rinzi remembers the time the catcher on his high school team was at bat, took a called strike, and then walked silently to the dugout where he retrieved a pair of glasses and offered them to the umpire . . .

SOMETHING TO REMEMBER. Stendel, who is 6-3½ and weighs 210 to rate as the biggest player on the team, once knocked in six runs in a single inning . . . Alex "Bobo" Salerno once fanned 20 batters in a seven-inning semi-pro game . . . Pepper Vinci, shortstop, played with the Brooklyn Amateur Baseball Foundation at Ebbetts Field. Only 15 Brooklyn athletes were invited . . .

PRIVATE SIMMONS TAKES THE MOUND. Curt Simmons, former star lefthander for the Philadelphia Phils now in the Army, hurled against the Richmond Tigers of the O-I League in an exhibition game the other night.

He retired the last 12 batters in succession while hurling the final four innings of a 2-2 tie for his 28th Infantry Division. The former "bonus baby" has now faced a total of 27 batters without giving up a hit—a no-hitter if you stretch it over several games.

NOCTURNAL SCENE. You might drop over to the stadium tonight if you enjoy track. Harding will open its second annual night relays as a strong favorite to win the Midtown Chevrolet Rotating trophy.

The meet proved a big success with local fans last season. Keep your eye on Danny Day and Paul Ludwig, Harding's high point men.

GIRLS, GIRLS. Organizing girls softball teams this year are Marion Power Shovel, Engineer Depot and Fulfillment Corp. Twenty-seven gals reported for practice at M.P.S. the other night . . . Elmer Smith is the manager.

Newark Set For 1st Series At Local Park

Special to The Star

SPRINGFIELD, O., May 4—After being bombarded by Springfield, 18-10, last night in Springfield, the Marion Red Sox return to open a two-game series against the Newark Yankees at Lincoln Park.

John Andrews was the big gun in Manager Elmer Yoter's attack as the big leftfielder blasted two round trippers in four official trips to the plate.

First Baseman Marv Stendel clouted a four bagger in the fifth with one mate aboard while catcher Ed Sadowski gave his team a total of four homers for the evening when he socked one in the seventh with the sacks empty.

5 Homers

Springfield poled five homers off three Red Sox hurlers. Catcher Ralph Onash ran his season's total to five as he belted a pair, while Second Baseman Jim Madalone, Manager Andy Gilbert and Leftfielder Jerry Rende contributed one each.

The Red Sox, after trailing 5-1 going into the fourth, came to life and plated five tallies to take a 6-5 lead. Andrews' second circuit blow of the evening with two on was the big hit of the inning.

Springfield tied it up in its half of the fourth but Marion broke loose for three runs in the fifth to take a commanding 9-6 lead. Stendel's homer following a Giant error accounted for two of the markers.

Surged Ahead

The Giants surged ahead with five markers in the sixth and were never headed as they added two in the seventh and five in the eighth.

Dick Tarys started on the mound for the Red Sox, but was lifted in favor of Bob Penny in the sixth. Penny lasted until the eighth when he gave way to Baker Hyde. Penny was charged with the loss.

Wynn Named To Hurl First Against Athletics

CLEVELAND, May 4—(AP)—Husky Early Wynn will try to pitch the Cleveland Indians back into first place tonight in the opener of a two-game series with the Philadelphia Athletics.

The idle Tribesmen skidded into second place yesterday as Washington's Senators moved up by trouncing the Chicago White Sox. The Indians now are a half game behind Washington and only a few percentage points ahead of the New York Yankees.

Only Two Wins

Judging by the records, the A's should not present too much difficulty for the booming Indians. Philadelphia has only two victories out of 15 games and is floundering in last place.

The Athletics are hopeful of showing up better, however, as a result of four new players acquired Monday in the seven-player deal with the Chicago White Sox and Cleveland.

The quartet of newcomers are Outfielders Gus Zernial and Dave Philley of the Sox and Pitcher Sam Zoldak and Catcher Ray Murray of the Indians.

Alex Kellner, a southpaw, will start for the Athletics, which should be good news to Cleveland's rookie sensation, Harry Simpson.

In the Boston series, the young first baseman got five of his six hits off two other lefthanders, Bill Wight and Mel Parnell.

Kellner, who has a 1-1 record, beat the Tribesmen only once last season while losing five times.

Harris Reports

Charley Harris, the 25-year-old pitcher purchased from the Athletics reported to the Tribe yesterday and worked out briefly in the stadium.

"Don't know much about him," Manager Al Lopez remarked, "but we'll find out as soon as we can."

Luke Easter, the big first baseman who is suffering from a leg injury, also showed up at the field and predicted he would be back in action next week.

Easter confined his workout to bicycle riding, which is part of his program to strengthen the injured muscle in his left leg.

Mike Garcia is slated for mound action tomorrow afternoon in the final game of the series, Bob Feller and either Bob Lemon or Lou Brissie will handle the twirling against Washington on Sunday.

SEBO WAS A SLUGGER

EAST LANSING, Mich.—(AP)—Steve Sebo, Michigan State's freshman football coach, twice led the Spartan baseball team in batting as a catcher during his undergraduate days. He hit .342 as a sophomore and a lusty .402 in his junior year.

Konstanty Fails In Relief Role Again

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Big Jim Konstanty is running behind his 1950 schedule and the "I told you so" choir is tuning up.

They said around the training camps that Konstanty, the Phils' relief ace, couldn't possibly repeat last year's success. So far they're right. Because he failed last night, the St. Louis Cards ride in first place today.

Konstanty didn't lose a game until May 30 last season Already he has lost two and won none. This time last year he had a 1-0 record.

But it's much too early to judge. Failure of Eddie Sawyer's pitchers, with the exception of Robin Roberts, has thrust a heavier burden on Konstanty. It seems impossible, but he's working more often than last year when he made 74 appearances.

Little Rest

Last night was his eighth job in 16 Phil games. The only time he rests is when Roberts starts.

Earlier, the Braves took liberties with Jim's stuff like the Dodgers did opening day. Then came the eighth inning of last night's game with St. Louis.

Four hits, a walk and an error by Del Ennis accounted for three runs and brought in Milo Candini to relieve the reliefer. A fourth run crossed before the side was out. The final count was, 8-4, St. Louis.

But Konstanty's troubles are only a part of the Phils' woes. Catcher Andy Seminick was hit behind the left ear by Max Lanier's pitch in the fourth inning. Carried from the field and taken to a hospital, Seminick soon regained consciousness. X-rays will determine how long he'll be out.

It seems Branch Rickey has more than a lefthand catcher at Pittsburgh. His Pirates continued their sweep through the last by ruining the New York Giants three-game win streak, 7-4. After Spider Jorgensen's pinch homer tied the score in the ninth, the Pirates batted around in the 10th scoring four runs on only two hits. Mel Queen won his first game.

Brooklyn solved an old charmer Herm Wehmeier, who beat them four times last year. With Preacher Roe throwing a six-hitter, the Dodgers shut out the Cincinnati Reds, 8-0.

Grand Slam

Andy Pafko's homer with the bases loaded paced Chicago's 9-3 win over the Boston Braves. That opened the door for St. Louis to slip past Boston into firstplace. Sam Jethroe with a homer and single drove in all three Boston runs off Rookie Bob Schultz.

But the big explosion of the day was in St. Louis where the New York Yankees scored 11 in the ninth inning to flatten the Brownies, 17-3 The 11 runs were a new league record for a ninth inning and the 24 total bases in the inning tied a record.

Gil McDougald hit a grand slam homer and a two-run triple in the ninth inning, trying a modern major league record with six runs batted in for one inning.

Allie Reynolds had little trouble going the route in his first win of the western swing with the help of Walt Dropo. Dropo came off the bench and he responded with a double and a single to knock in four runs of the 6-1 edge over Detroit's Ted Gray.

Washington continued to mop up the west, whacking Chicago, 7-1, to take over the undisputed lead from idle Cleveland. The Indians and Philadelphia A's were not scheduled. Connie Marrero scattered nine hits for his third straight win. In three games he has given up a total of three runs.

WINS ROOKIE AWARD

MONTREAL, May 4—(AP)—Terry Sawchuk goalie for the Detroit Red Wings, has been awarded the Calder Montreal trophy for 1950-51, National Hockey League headquarters said today. The prize is presented annually to the one named best rookie.

Brooks "Cage" Wild Man Of Redlegs

BROOKLYN, May 4—(AP)—The wild man was on the loose again yesterday so the Cincinnati Reds got away to a sad start in Brooklyn.

The wild one, of course, is Herman Wehmeier—the husky pitcher who constantly gets himself in trouble either with walks or by getting behind the hitters so he has to serve up a big fat pitch.

He got into trouble in a hurry yesterday and the Dodgers finally finished with an easy 8 to 0 victory.

In the opening inning two walks and a wild pitch set it up for three runs to come in on singles by Jackie Robinson and Roy Campanella.

Wehmeier finally bowed out after four innings He had allowed five runs up to that point.

The name of Raffensberger continued to be kicked around in rumors of a trade.

The dope again was that the Reds are interested in Outfielders Gene Hermanski or Tommy Brown Dodger officials said both were available "but not for cash."

Raffensberger, Fox or Frank Smith were the Cincinnati hurlers being mentioned as the ones desired by Brooklyn in the event a swap is arranged.

Lima Drops Sixth Straight

By The Associated Press

The Newark Yanks exploded with eight runs in the eighth to shellack the Lima Phillies, 11-8 at Lima last night.

It was the sixth straight loss, against no victories, for the Phillies. Lima went ahead once in the fourth when a homer by playing Manager Barney Lutz scored two runs.

Relief Hurlers Sparkle in A.A.

By The Associated Press

Relief pitchers stole the show in the American Association last night as in Bob Porterfield's role as a fireman in his first appearance of the season with Kansas City sending the Blues virtually into a tie with Milwaukee for the lead.

With Milwaukee's game with Louisville being rained out, Kansas City moved to within 2½ percentage points of the Brewers by pushing its 11th win in 16 starts. Milwaukee has a 10-4 record.

The Blues downed Indianapolis 4-2 when Porterfield, shipped in from the New York Yankees, rescued Cliff Melton's third victory in the ninth. Young Porterfield went in with two Indian runners on the paths and one out. He fanned the next two batters.

At Minneapolis, Lefty Klesitz relieved Norman Fox in the eighth to protect the Millers for a 6-2 win over Columbus. The Millers pecked four Red Bird pitchers for 10 hits and backed Fox early in the game with some brilliant fielding by Rudy Rufer and Dave Williams in the infield.

St. Paul booked its first victory of the home stand by shading third-place Toledo, 4-3, to end the Mud Hen's five-game winning string. John Rutherford was the winner with a nine-hitter. Two of the Hens' runs were unearned.

Silverstein Wins In Straight Falls

Ruffy Silverstein beat Frank Marconi in two straight falls in last night's headliner at the armory wrestling show. Marconi managed to stay with Silverstein for 27 minutes in the first fall but the second took less than one minute.

In a 30-minute opening bout, Bob Cummings and Bob Ford battled to a draw.

Ann Stanley won the first fall of her bout from Betty Hawkins in 11 minutes with a body Slam. Hawkins came back strong to take the second in nine minutes with a reversed airplane spin. Stanley took the match with knee lifts and body slams in 10 minutes of the third fall.

Promoter Les Fishbaugh announced that Irish McGee and Chippewa Lone Eagle would appear on next week's card along with Elvira Snodgrass and Nature Girl.

College Football Costs Too Much For 23 Schools

NEW YORK, May 4—(AP)—College football's modern scissors—high finance and draft-minded material—are cutting so sharply that many of the nation's institutions can't take it.

Since the end of last season 23 colleges have dropped intercollegiate football and two others are on the brink of making the jump.

If these two—Glassboro (N. J.) Teachers and St. Martin's of Washington—take the leap, the casualty list for the past two years will number at least 27. Portland (Ore.) and Rollins (Fla.) called it quits after 1949.

The reasons generally are the same. It costs too much to try to maintain a profitable football team. Uncle Sam is grabbing up too much of the available manpower.

Most of the walkouts have been in the ranks of the smaller and junior colleges, but not all. Duquesne, Georgetown and St Mary's of California are major elevens which have tossed in the towel.

Bucks Risk Big Ten Lead Against Purdue

CHICAGO, May 4—(AP)—League-leading Ohio State puts its two-game undefeated record on the line today and tomorrow against Purdue in the top series of a full Big Ten baseball schedule.

Illinois (3-1) is at Wisconsin (1-2). Minnesota (1-3) at Northwestern (3-1), Michigan (0-4) at Indiana (2-1) and Iowa (2-2) at Michigan State (0-0) to round out the weekend conference program. The games mark the halfway mark in the pennant race.

Donians Favored In Sparta Relays

Caledonia's track squad is favored to cop the title at the second annual Sparta Relays Saturday at the Mt. Vernon High School athletic field.

Stiff competition, however, is expected from Johnsville, 1950 champions, and host Sparta, runners-up last year.

The favored Donians are one of three Marion County schools entered in the meet. Fourteen thinclads from Caledonia will make the trip. Pleasant will enter six tracksters and four will be entered from Pleasant.

The first running of the relays last year drew 75 athletes from six schools. This year's meet will include 169 runners from 16 schools. The preliminary events will get under way at 10 a.m. Saturday with the finals beginning at 1:30.

Other schools from this area entered include Sparta, Cardington, Iberia, Johnsville and Hyatts. Wesley Boals, track coach at Sparta, is director of the relays.

SEEKING GAMES

The Marion Training School softball team is seeking games with teams from the Marion area. The team wants games on Tuesday or Thursday nights to be played on the school's diamond. Team players and managers interested in booking games may obtain information from LaMoyne A. Green, superintendent.

Truman Says Hearing Will Bear Him Out

Sure MacArthur Will Be Proven Wrong In Senate Investigation

WASHINGTON, May 4—(AP)—Harry S Truman — right-lipped war leader of a year ago—says he's sure the Senate hearings will prove he was right and Gen Douglas MacArthur was wrong.

And he came pretty close yesterday to giving MacArthur's Senate investigators something that wasn't true.

The President's weekly news conference ran a poor second in the headline count to MacArthur's hard-hitting testimony going on at the same time at the other end of town.

MacArthur said among many other things that the Central Intelligence Agency thinks there was very little chance last November of the Chinese Communists entering the Korean war. It was in November that they did enter the war.

Asked about this Mr Truman said (1) he CIA didn't make any such report to him, and (2) MacArthur didn't even allow the CIA to operate in his command until recently.

The CIA is the nation's top-level intelligence agency. Mr Truman said its director, Gen Walter Bedell Smith, made a special flight to Tokyo and persuaded MacArthur to make use of it.

The President said MacArthur contacted him at least twice during 14 and conference in October this year.

MacArthur said the Chinese Reds were not going to strike. When they did strike he said he was more sorry than surprised. But MacArthur he said was very much surprised.

Getting away from the MacArthur controversy briefly Mr Truman said William O'Dwyer ambassador to Mexico still has his full confidence. The Senate crime investigating committee charged earlier in the week that O'Dwyer allowed big-time crime to flourish while he was mayor of New York.

Mr Truman said he has no intention of firing O'Dwyer and that he doubted if O'Dwyer would resign. The President said O'Dwyer is a fighter like himself.

Reservists To Be Released

WASHINGTON, May 4—(AP)—The armed services will begin releasing enlisted Reservists as soon as practicable, the Defense Department said yesterday.

It announced plans call for the Air Force to start the program almost immediately with the Marine Corps following in June the Navy in July and the Army by next September.

Priority will be given to World War II veterans.

The entire program is subject to change should the international situation be altered substantially, the department said.

The Air Force said its enlisted personnel ordered to extended duty from the volunteer reserve may get out after 12 months of active duty. But officers ordered to duty since the Korean outbreak in June 1950 may be required to serve 21 months.

Red Skelton Signs $9 Million Contract

LOS ANGELES, May 4—(AP)—Red Skelton has signed a seven-year contract which his manager, Bo Roos says will bring him between $9,000,000 and $10,000,000. It is for radio and television performances sponsored by the Procter and Gamble Soap Co.

Skelton is to begin a weekly half-hour television show over NBC next October. Currently on radio over CBS, the comedian will continue his radio shows but Roos said he does not know which network will get them.

The new contract, Roos said, does not include Skelton's income from movies, personal appearances or records "which should add up to additional millions."

Terry and the Pirates By George Wunder

UGH, TERENCE! OL' HOTSHOT'S JUST PROVED THAT SIGHT-SEEING'S NO CURE FOR A BUSTED HEART.
HOW ABOUT BRIGHT LIGHTS AND MUSIC? THERE'S AN UPHOLSTERED CELLAR ACROSS THE STREET.
NOPE! IT'S NO USE, TERRY. THIS GAUDY, TINSELED ATMOSPHERE IS O.K. FOR SHALLOW, UNTHINKING YOUTH, BUT OL' HOTSHOT'S BEYOND IT ALL. LIFE IS SACK CLOTH AND ASHES, AND DO YOU KNOW THE ADDRESS OF A PARTICULARLY DISMAL HERMITAGE, NO WOMEN ALLOWED?
GEORGE WUNDER
GAD! I CAN'T STAND IT! M' SOUL REBELS THAT THERE SHOULD BE SUCH MISERY IN THE WORLD. MAY I SHARE YOUR SORROW, FRIEND?

GO EASY, ANDY BOY—THERE'S A LONG TOUGH BATTLE AHEAD— AND A SMART WARRIOR RELAXES ONLY WHEN HE TAKES OFF HIS SUIT OF ARMOR—NOT WHEN HE PUTS IT ON!

IN FACT, IF I'M NOT PLENTY CAREFUL, THIS COULD BE A ONE-WAY TICKET TO A NICE, QUIET CEMETERY!

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

Representative Javits' petition to televise Congress is moving very slowly . . . Some members fear it would be too much of a give-away program.

* * *

I hear one fellow said when he was elected to Congress nobody told him he'd have to put on a fresh pastel shirt every day and get his hair cut twice a month.

* * *

But only a short time ago baseball players were objecting to being televised . . . Shucks, that's the only way most people know the Giants are still living.

* * *

So far this season Durocher has tried everything . . . He got real desperate there one day and didn't even bat.
